JOHN BLISS STEBBINS entered the Springfield high school when it was first opened in 1828, being then just eleven years of age. In 1832 he decided to start out in life, and that was the beginning of his long business career. He was first engaged as clerk in the wholesale grocery store of Averill & Pryor in Hartford, Connecticut, the latter member of the firm being his cousin. He received very little remuneration for his labors, except his board. As he was not very strong the heavy work proved too severe and he was very glad to return to Springfield and accept a position as clerk in the hardware store of Homer Foot & Company. Their store then stood where the institution for savings now stands.

On attaining his majority he started for New York City with his pockets well filled with recommendations. He found temporary employment with Stout, Ingoldsby & Co., hardware dealers, during the absence of a clerk. When the clerk whose place he had taken returned, MR. STEBBINS received an offer from George Dwight, of Homer Foot & Co., to return, with the promise that he would be given an interest in the business within a few years. He returned to their employ in 1839, and in 1842 the new partnership was formed. He remained with this firm for over fifty years, with the exception of the one year spent in New York. During his long connection with this firm many changes took place in Springfield, and the famous hardware house kept pace with the growth of the city. MR. STEBBINS shared in the prosperity of the firm, and in 1885 retired to devote himself to the Springfield institution for savings, of which he was president, and the manufacturing interests with which he was prominently identified. He was the oldest corporator of the institution for savings, as he was elected a member in 1850. In 1858 he was chosen a trustee, and in 1884 succeeded Colonel Thompson as president. When the Holyoke water-power company was organized in 1859, MR. STEBBINS became a stockholder and was made a director in 1868. In 1886 he was put at the head of this concern, but retired in 1890 so as to be relieved from such heavy cares. Since the organization of the Ludlow manufacturing company in 1868, he was one of its directors, and in later years was its president, and he succeeded to John H. Southworth as president of the Hampshire Paper Company. He was also a director of the City National Bank and the Springfield Library. He cared little for politics, but served on the board of aldermen in 1853, as a member of the first ward. He was a member of the school committee from 1865 to 1869 and again in 1873. In 1883 he served a term in the legislature.

MR. STEBBINS was one of the strong supporting members of Christ Episcopal Church. In 1845 and 1846 he was a vestryman and served as parish treasurer from 1847 to 1852. He was elected senior warden in 1853 and served in that capacity until his death. He was always chosen a delegate to the diocesan convention and had also participated in the deliberations of the two general conventions as a delegate.

MR. STEBBINS was one of the finest fibered, sweetest natured, most honorable and high principled of men. His gracious and cordial courtesy matched his rigid integrity and faithful fulfilment of every task. His home on Crescent Hill was the center of a charming and elevated hospitality. His striking, dignified and picturesque figure, with white head and long white beard, as he made his daily walk through the streets, will long be remembered. MR. STEBBINS was a gentleman by nature and grace, not by art and studied acquirement. The very genuineness of his character made him see the best in others, and people felt an instinctive desire to deserve the good opinion which he entertained of them. His cordial greeting was stamped with sincerity. The opportunity to perform some service for another was such a manifest pleasure as to rob the act of any sense of obligation on the part of the recipient. A little incident will serve to show how soon a stranger came to understand the character of MR. STEBBINS. He was introduced to a man from this region at Virginia Beach, who asked whether The Republican was to be obtained there. The next day, and thereafter during their stay, MR. STEBBINS brought his copy of the paper, with the wrapper unbroken, and with gentle insistence made his new-made friend take the first reading of it. This gentleman in speaking of the incident afterward, said: "There was no denying him. He was the most natural and unaffected gentleman I ever met."

Honor and fidelity marked all his business relations; and in the best interests of the community he was a reliable and uplifting factor. He was without the distinction of high public office and was never ambitious of personal preferment, yet none stood higher in the respect of the people of his city.

MRS. STEBBINS when a girl attended the famous seminary conducted by Miss Hawkes on Maple Street, and after leaving school spent two years in Washington City. While there she joined the Episcopal Church, and after her return to Springfield, became identified with Christ Church, of which she continued an active and useful member until her death.

After their marriage MR. and MRS. STEBBINS boarded with Colonel Russell in the Sheldon House on Elm Street, afterwards removing to the house at the corner of Main and Emery Streets, adjoining MRS. STEBBINS' old home. Here they remained for ten years, then spent three years in the Byers Cottage on Byers Street. In 1857 MR. STEBBINS bought of Senator John Mills the residence on Crescent Hill, where they passed the remainder of their lives. It was literally an "open house," and their genuine hospitality made it notable among the homes of Springfield. MRS. STEBBINS' wise and gentle ways, her sunny temper and essential but quiet strength of character, made her helpful to an uncommon degree both in her own home and outside of it.

MARIA LOUISA STEBBINS is a clever amateur photographer, to whom we are indebted for the very beautiful picture of the family residence, Crescent Hill, and the views exterior and interior, of the Festus Stebbins homestead.

CHARLES STEBBINS was graduated from Hobart College, Geneva, New York, in 1846. He was admitted to the bar in 1849 and entered upon the practice of the law at Syracuse, going from there to Cazenovia in 1851, where he won a high rank in his profession as a well informed, discreet, and judicious counsellor, and like his father, occupied a prominent place at the bar of central New York. In 1871 he was appointed a commissioner to revise the statutes of the State of New York, which position he held until January 1, 1875, when he resigned to accept the responsible position of private secretary to Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, Governor of the State of New York.

His grandfather on his mother's side was the Hon. Josiah Masters, member of Congress from Rensselaer County, and also for many years first Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of that County.

"Governor Tilden was singularly fortunate in his judgment of men and in the selection of assistants to aid him in the discharge of his onerous duties; but he rarely, if ever, was more fortunate and happy than in his selection of MR. STEBBINS."

MR. STEBBINS was of medium height, of a nervous, sanguine temperament, and possessed of a sound, tough physical organization. In manner he was quiet, simple, undemonstrative, genial, sympathetic, and kindly; while capable of saying no most emphatically, in the mildest manner. His judgment of men and measures was formed with great rapidity and certainty, and he was rarely mistaken or at fault in his conclusions.

THOMAS BRIDGEMAN STEBBINS, having lost his father when four years old, was taken to raise by a farmer by the name of Asahel Lyman, who lived five miles from the village of Northampton at what was then called South Farms. THOMAS was a regular attendant at church and took pride in being always on time, although the church was situated five miles from his home.

In 1854 he removed to Lake County, Illinois, where he lived for six years, being collector of taxes for three years of that time. He afterward removed to Morris, Grundy County, Illinois, where he entered the employ of the Chicago & Rock Island Railroad Company. He had been in the employ of that Company twenty-eight years and ten months when he was struck by a train which broke his hip and left him a cripple for life.

In April, 1872, under his superintendence, a Union Sunday School was organized in Washington Heights, MR. STEBBINS being chosen the first superintendent and continuing in that capacity fourteen years. He was one of the organizers on May 5, 1872, of the Union Religious Society, which subsequently changed its name to Bethany Union Society. Of this Society he was chosen trustee and was also chosen deacon. Since 1891 the Church has employed DEACON STEBBINS as distributor of charities and village missionary. He is also agent for The Saturday Sun.

son of Benjamin Stebbins and Lucy Colton, was born June 25, 1796, at Longmeadow, Massachusetts; died December 12, 1873, at Long Meadow, Massachusetts; married September 12, 1821, at Lebanon, Madison County, New York, to LAURA MERRICK, born March 17, 1799, at Lebanon, Madison County, New York; died September 7, 1875, at Longmeadow, Massachusetts, who was a daughter of Dr. Constant Merrick and Experience Burt. Occupation, miller and farmer. Politics, Republican. Religion, Congregationalist. Resided at Longmeadow, Massachusetts.

CHILDREN:

4858. I. Lucy Colton, born August 19, 1822 (or 1823); died September 19, 1864, at Norwich, New York.
4859. II. Laura Merrick, born October 16, 1824; died May 22, 1880, at Hartford, Connecticut.
4860. III. Alexander Field, born January 21, 1827; married Mary E. Anidon.+

4864. VI. Samuel Edgar, born March 29, 1836; married Jennie Elizabeth Porter.+

SAMUEL COLTON STEBBINS taught school in his younger days, quite a number of his scholars becoming prominent professional men, judges, lawyers, ministers, and missionaries. After his marriage, which took place in New York State, he purchased a team of horses and a wagon, with which he and his bride made the trip to their home in Longmeadow, a distance of two hundred and forty miles.

Besides attending to a large farm, he was also a large dealer in lumber, and owned a saw mill on the banks of the Connecticut river. He bought his timber in Vermont and New Hampshire and rafted the logs down the Connecticut river to his mill. He was at that time considered the wealthiest man in the town; but the hard times of 1837 proved too much for him and he lost all his property.

For a time he raised silk worms, but that did not prove a paying industry, although he gathered a considerable quantity of silk. The latter part of his life was devoted chiefly to farming.

He was a member of a committee which, in 1839, founded a public library and was for many years its librarian. He was an extensive reader, and was possessed of an excellent memory. He was also a good mathematician.

MR. STEBBINS took a great interest in public affairs, town, state and national. He was captain of a company of State Militia in Longmeadow, and at one time was constable of the town. When the temperance reform struck New England, in 1842, it found him an active member of the Longmeadow Washingtonian Society.

Over one hundred large shade trees, which he planted in his native town, give proof of his love for nature. He thus set an example which it would be well for others to emulate.

The parents of JOSEPH STEBBINS died when he was about fifteen years of age. His father was extensively engaged in manufacturing and merchandising and was regarded as a wealthy man, but when his estate came to be settled up it was found that his liabilities, much of which was security for friends, were so great that his children were left with but little, if any, means.

Thus penniless and orphaned at an early age JOSEPH was thrown on his own resources, and as it was a custom in New England in that day to teach every man a trade, he was apprenticed to learn the trade of a carpenter. After attaining his majority he spent several years in his native town working at his trade. Desiring to locate in some other state he spent a year or more in visiting the southern and western states to find a suitable place to make his home. In 1837, together with his sister, Mrs. Martha S. Russell, and brother, Charles Stebbins, he went to Richmond, Virginia. He also lived for several years in the City of Petersburg, Virginia.

About 1849 he came back to Richmond to live, where the remainder of his life was spent. For some time he was engaged in the business of builder and manufacturer of sash, blinds, doors, etc., but his factory was consumed by fire about 1849, and thereafter he was engaged in mercantile pursuits, principally as a dealer in china and glassware.

On February 21, 1865, the house in which he lived was burned and the whole family perished except one son, Joseph, who was absent from home at the time. MR. STEBBINS was a man of fine natural mind, which had been cultivated by extensive reading, was fluent and entertaining in conversation and courtly in manner and bearing. His character was above reproach and he had a high sense of honor, which characterized his dealings with others.

Mrs. Stebbins was a woman of rare personal charm and accomplishment, a sincere and devoted Christian, faithful to the obligations to her husband and children. The influence of her life and example abides with those who came under them.

MOSES LEONARD STEBBINS was station agent of the Connecticut River Railroad at Greenfield, Massachusetts, continuing there until the fall of 1856, when he accepted a position with a railroad company at Enterprise, Mississippi. On account of bad health in his family he afterward removed to Madison, Florida, where he ran a steam mill for Rufus Dickinson, until it was destroyed by fire.

When the first railroad in the state was opened, he secured the agency at Madison, also the express agency. After several years there he accepted the agency at Live Oak, Florida, where he also had the express agency, and was post-master. He continued to reside in that locality the remainder of his life, and was buried near the banks of the noted Suwanee River.

MR. STEBBINS was industrious, upright, and generous, and was possessed of uncommon qualities of mind and heart.

GEORGE EVERETT WRIGHT began running as express messenger for the Thompson Express Company. When the Civil War broke out he enlisted, May 3, 1861, in the 10th Massachusetts Regiment, and was in the engagements at Yorktown and was also with McClellan when he tried to force his way to Richmond. He lay in Chickamaugua Swamp, where he was taken sick, and with six hundred other soldiers was taken to the hospital in New York. He was discharged November 10, 1862, and returned home. After careful nursing he regained his health and re-enlisted January 1, 1864, in the 3rd Rhode Island Cavalry. He was in the Red River battle and remained in the service until after the surrender of the South, then went into office in New Orleans in the employ of the government, and was finally discharged November 29, 1865. After this he was employed in the express office in Erie, Pennsylvania, and then became general baggage agent on the Texas Pacific Railway. For several years he engaged in the stock business in Colorado, and he is now conductor on the Denver, Lakewood and Golden Railroad.

4988. VII. Robert Clayton Dickinson, born December 27, 1860; married Carrie Jacobs Hogan.+

RUFUS DICKINSON, at the age of fifteen, left his father's home in Amherst, Massachusetts, and went to Georgia. He formed a partnership with Lucien Church, Telfair, and afterwards bought out the stock and moved to Belleville, Florida, also establishing a branch store at Ellenville on the Suwannee River. In 1854 he removed to Madison, where he bought a mill and also carried on merchandising. When the Civil War broke out he sold his business and became Quartermaster in the army, remaining until the close of the war. He then established himself in the business of ginning cotton, carrying it on successfully until his death.

son of Elijah Stebbins and Harriet Leonard, was born January 11, 1824, at York, Livingston County, New York; married May 22, 1845, at Pike, Wyoming County, New York, to ELEANOR GRIGGS, born 1819, at Pike, Wyoming County, New York, who was a daughter of Philip Griggs and Rebecca Cain. Occupation, farmer. Politics, Democrat. Residence, Pike, Wyoming County, New York. No children.

CARLOS LEONARD STEBBINS remained at home with his parents until he became of age. His natural artistic tendency, which was inherited from his mother, began to assert itself, and the young man, in whose veins ran the blood of a people in whom love of color, harmony and beauty is inherent, decided to take up portrait painting as a profession. This vocation he has followed since 1844, and the keen pleasure he takes in his work is a warrant of its success. His fellow citizens are justly proud of their native artist, and many specimens of his skill are to be seen in the cities and villages of western New York, as well as in other states.

MR. STEBBINS is also possessed of great mechanical genius, and has patented a sewing machine of his own invention. In his home he has a shop where he amuses himself with cunning handiwork. He is an Odd Fellow and a Mason, having held offices in both orders. MR. STEBBINS is the only surviving member of the Board of Trustees who built Pike Seminary, one of the oldest and most successful educational institutions in the state. He was also chairman and working member of its building committee. Recently he has resigned his position as President of the State Bank of Pike, which he had held since its organization, and of which he is still one of the directors. His home is on a farm, one-half mile from Pike. A gentleman of superior mental endowments, blameless morals, and pleasing social qualifications, he stands high in the estimation of all who know him.

son of Chester Stebbins and Anne Willard, was born March 26, 1828, at York, Livingston County, New York; married June 10, 1853, at Pike, Wyoming County, New York, to JERUSHA SPENCER, born May 31, 1828, at Pike, New York, who was a daughter of John Spencer and Martha Putnam. Occupation, newspaper reporter and author of many short stories in prose and verse. Politics, Republican. Settled at Hartfield, New York.

CHILDREN:

5065. I. Spencer, born March 17, 1856; died September 7, 1858.
5066. II. Anne, born December 13, 1859; married, December 16, 1879, Harvey Parker.
5067. III. John Elmer, born July 25, 1862; married Nellie Shephard.+

GEORGE WILLARD STEBBINS was drafted during the Civil War, but was exempted on account of the loss of sight of his right eye. From his boyhood he had a taste for literary work, and became widely known in his section of the state as a writer for local papers. One of his productions was "The Story of Benoni Stebbins," a romance founded on fact, which was published in "The Pilot" in five parts. He also wrote abstracts of the lectures of the Chautauqua Assembly, which he regularly attended.

son of Almerick Stebbins and Lydia Barnard, was born June 23, 1830, at Whately, Franklin County, Massachusetts; married November 11, 1850, at South Dansville, Steuben County, New York, to LOIS M. HUNT, born June 17, 1834, at Governeur, St. Laurence County, New York, who was a daughter of Richard Hunt and Esther Carrington. Occupation, carpenter. Politics, Prohibition. Religion, Methodist. Residence, Meadville, Pennsylvania.

CHILDREN:

5068. I. William H., born September 27, 1851; married Frances Rice.
5069. II. Julia P., born December 2, 1853; married William Horth.

5072. V. Jennie M., born April 28, 1862; married John D. Smith
5073. VI. Frank C., born November 12, 1867; married Anna King.

GEORGE B. STEBBINS removed with his father to the town of York, Livingston County, New York, about 1832. In 1835 he went to Jasper, Steuben County, and in 1839 to Dansville, Livingston County.

As soon as he was old enough to earn anything he was put to work. In 1847 he went to work in a saw mill in South Dansville, Steuben County, New York. The next winter he worked for his board and schooling at Dansville, and in the spring of 1848 he went back to the saw mill and continued to work there for seven years.

He then started out for himself. He soon became a first-class sawyer and stationary engineer. From South Dansville he moved to a place called the Swale, in the town of Canisteo, Steuben County, New York, where there were two steam saw mills, owned by a New York company. In 1854 he removed to Hornellsville, New York, where he worked in several different mills, and went to Rock Creek, Ohio, to place the machinery in a steam saw mill.

In the winter of 1858 a lumber company wanted him to go to Cattaraugus County, New York, to finish sawing a stock of lumber they had near Olean, so he moved again.

A large lumber firm of Salamanca soon after engaged him to do some circular sawing and he moved to the Hemlock Mills (afterwards Salamanca) in the spring of 1860 and lived there for twenty-six years, where besides sawing, he did millwright work.

Having acquired the carpenter trade, he took the contract, in 1874, and built one of the large school houses of Salamanca. In 1875 he built a dwelling house for himself and in the fall of that year he went to work as carpenter on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad, between Salamanca and Dayton, Ohio.

He remained with the railroad company until the spring of 1877, when he went back to the mill. He worked another year for the railroad, then went home to Salamanca, and again worked at the carpenter trade, also doing millwright work, driving piles, etc.

In 1882 he put the machinery into a wagon factory for W. H. McCleary, and for some time acted as superintendent.

In 1886 he bought a small piece of land and tried farming, but not making a successful farmer he again resumed work as a carpenter.

MR. STEBBINS is one of those happy mortals who believe that "a contented mind is a continual feast."

son of Almerick Stebbins and Lydia Barnard, was born February 8, 1843, at Dansville, New York; married March 4, 1874, to EMMA H. SELBY, of Williamson, New York.

CHILDREN:

5074. I. Lola May, born March 23, 1875.
5075. II. J. Roland, born September 30, 1876.

JAMES K. STEBBINS enlisted in the 33rd New York Volunteer Infantry, May 15, 1861. He was on special detached service at Brigade headquarters, 3rd Brigade, 2nd Division, 6th Corps, for six months, and was one of the ninety-eight who made the heroic charge at Williamsburg, Virginia, May 5, 1862, under Hancock. On the night of June 28, 1862, at Golding's farm, Virginia, he was the only one of his company to volunteer to re-establish a picket line which had been withdrawn in the face of the enemy by mistake. This entitled him to the congressional medal granted for special acts of bravery. He participated in the Peninsular and second Bull Run campaigns and was with the regiment every time it was under fire, until, at the battle of Antietam, he was shot through the lungs while near the old Dunkard Church, and left for dead on the field between the fires of the infantry and artillery. He regained consciousness, however, and was taken to the hospital, where he recovered from his wounds. He was honorably discharged April 10, 1863.

He was president of the Survivors' Association of the 27th and 33rd Infantry and 1st New York Veteran Cavalry. He removed to Ashtabula, Ohio, in 1867, where he was made treasurer, and was a deacon in the Baptist Church for twenty-two years.

the Shenandoah Valley, until the war closed. He was a gallant, dashing cavalry man, and was called the "dare devil" of the cavalry. He was discharged in June, 1865, and went to the oil regions of Pennsylvania, witnessing the rise and collapse of Pithole City. From there he went to Rock Creek, Ohio, where he attended his last term in school in a building which he afterward purchased and converted into a carriage shop. He spent some time at Pike, New York, where he studied with his cousin, Carlos Leonard Stebbins.

He learned the carriage painter's trade and returned to Rock Creek, Ohio, where he engaged in carriage and ornamental painting, which soon developed into manufacturing carriages, wagons, and sleighs, which business he continued for twelve years. In 1875 he met with business reverses and it cost him his health and nearly six years of struggling to get even with the world again. In 1881 he removed to a farm near Everets, Nansemond County, Virginia, where he lived for four years, farming, lumbering, getting out railroad ties and various other things. He then removed to Churchland, Norfolk County, Virginia, and took charge of an establishment for manufacturing farm implements, carts, etc.

Wishing to give his children the benefit of a more practical education than he could afford, he and his wife established a small job printing office, which soon resulted in their publishing "The Little Gem Advertiser," and later a newspaper called "The New South." He was then engaged to establish a manufacturing business for O. M. Styvon & Company, of Norfolk, Virginia, which was merged into the Styvon Fence Company, of which he is superintendent and treasurer, which offices he has held for several years.

In 1889 he bought a farm in Isle of Wight County, Virginia, and in 1893 he removed to a place about four and one-half miles from Norfolk, Virginia, in Princess Anne County, on the banks of the Beautiful Broad Creek, where he hopes to regain his health, and where he is making himself a home where he expects to enjoy many happy days.

MR. STEBBINS became a member of the G. A. R. when only eighteen years of age, and as charter member of the Post was "officer of the day." In 1892 he joined the G. A. R. in Norfolk, since which he has been continually in office. In 1894 he was Post Commander, in 1895 and 1896, Senator Vice Department Commander, and practically in command on account of the absence of the Commander. In May, 1897, after a spirited contest, he was elected Commander of the Department of Virginia and North Carolina, by a very large majority. He was one of the first men to offer his services to the Governor of Virginia in case there was to be war, and took an active part in befriending Cuba and forcing the Government to declare war against Spain. Two months before war was declared he offered to raise a brigade of minute men to protect a very exposed portion of the coast of Virginia and later foreseeing that little or no danger was to be expected to the coast from the Spaniards, offered to raise a regiment for active service and at once issued orders for every veteran in the two states to begin recruiting men to be offered under call of the respective states' governors. The response was as noble as it was unexpected. In thirty days a regiment could have been put in the field, in sixty days a brigade, and by August 1st, a division of young men officered entirely by old, tried and experienced veterans could have been furnished in case of need. He had the solid backing of his Department, was the only veteran put forward for a command for the Department, but not an ex-Union veteran was given a commission in the state of Virginia or North Carolina, neither by their Governors nor by the President, and the subject of our sketch was left at home with his veterans, secure in the consciousness of having been ready to do their part in freeing Cuba from Spanish misrule and avenging the death of our 266 sailors and marines of the "Maine."

DONALD CARLOS STEBBINS was the first "American Guard" in Virginia and was commissioned captain when twelve years of age.

5138. VII. Ernest Edward Lewis, born November 27, 1871.
5139. VIII. Inez Viola Lewis, born November 13, 1874.

HARRIET ALMIRA STEBBINS began attending school at the early age of three years. She learned rapidly, being possessed of a remarkable memory, and was a famous speller. When but five years old, she was chosen one of the "captains" at a spelling match and stood upon a high desk in order to be as tall as the opposing captain, a young man. She "spelled the school down" on that occasion.

At the time of the Patriot War, the parents of JAMES SAWYER LEWIS left Canada and settled at Portland, Chautauqua County, New York. He received his education in the schools of that place, and at Fredonia Academy. He took up the profession of teaching, which he followed successfully for over twenty years. In 1855 he went to Jo Daviess County, Illinois. He responded to the call for volunteers in 1862 and enlisted in Company E, 96th Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry, being appointed corporal at the organization of the company, and shortly afterward being promoted to sergeant.

He left his wife and little son at her father's. Two months after his enlistment, their second child, a daughter, was born. A few months later, MRS. LEWIS' youngest sister, a bride of a few weeks, whose husband had also enlisted, was seized with smallpox, which had broken out in Galena.

The mother, Mrs. Stebbins, was suffering from a cataract on her eye and was helpless. It was then that MRS. LEWIS proved herself to be of the material of which heroines are made. Regardless of her own risk, she cared for her sister tenderly, but she died soon after and MRS. LEWIS and her two children were taken ill with the dread disease, her young brother, Martin, acting as nurse. The baby girl, whom the father had never seen, did not recover.

MR. LEWIS served his country faithfully until the close of the war, when he was honorably discharged in May, 1865. He returned home much broken in health. He taught in the public schools of Jo Daviess County until 1876, when his failing health compelled him to abandon his profession and take up farming.

MR. LEWIS has always been noted for his honesty of purpose, integrity of character and his earnest Christian life. He is a great Sunday School worker, prominent in church work, and in promoting whatever is for the good of his fellow men. Both MR. and MRS. LEWIS are honored and respected as people of culture and refinement.

5174. II. Alice Stearns, born October 16, 1867; married Frank Thomas; lives at Cambridge, Massachusetts. Mr. Thomas is superintendent of the Harvard Cooperative Society.
5175. III. Sherman Stearns, born April 10, 1876.

ALONZO DAVID STEARNS removed from Sherman to Westfield, New York, in 1864, and in 1870 went to Silver Creek, where he still resides, having a farm set out to grapes and other small fruits.

MR. STEARNS relates the following amusing reminiscence of his Grandfather Stebbins:

"Father and mother went to see a sick neighbor, leaving us with Grandpa. In the evening we heard a noise outside, and as wild animals were sometimes around, Grandpa grabbed the big iron shovel, which was used in the fireplace, and said: 'I will see what it is.' Being dark, he could just see something stirring and gave it a tremendous whack, then came running in for the old tin lantern, lit with a tallow dip, to see what prize he had captured. We were all excitement. Imagine our surprise and Grandpa's chagrin on beholding my mother's old pet goose lying dead on the ground."

Occupation, farmer. Politics, Republican. Religion, Protestant. Residence, Ionia, Michigan.

CHILDREN:

5180. I. Estella Louisa, born July 15, 1854; married Robert Weir Mathews.+
5181. II. Elmer Seymour, born April 15, 1861; married Nettie Van Blasdell.+
5182. III. Elva Elnora, born September 8, 1863.
5183. IV. Ella Sophia, born January 8, 1864; married Jay Rufus Densmore.+

SEYMOUR MILLS STEBBINS received his education in the primitive schools of his day, and assisted his father in the usual duties connected with farming and dairying. At eighteen his father's death left him the director of the farm interests and his mother's aid in family cares. In 1852 he purchased a farm located on section twenty in Easton township, which for many years was his home, but having purchased a town residence, he has retired from active farm pursuits, although he still has it under his supervision. He has always proved a successful farmer, and a practical, public spirited promoter of the county's interests. He has been notary public, and has held every township office except that of constable. His several terms of supervisorship, which office he held during the trying times of the Civil War, attest his townsmen's confidence in his ability. MR. STEBBINS business ability, financial success and general Christian charity have won the esteem of all who know him, and insured his comfort in old age.

ELVA E. STEBBINS is a graduate of Ionia High School, the State Normal School of Ypsilanti, and of the Kindergarten Department of the West Michigan Business College of Grand Rapids. She has taught in the primary departments of the public schools of Michigan for several years with flattering success. At present she is engaged at Calumet, where interest in the stock market proves a pleasant diversion from the duties of teaching.

ELLA S. STEBBINS graduated from the Ionia High School in 1886, and for several years was a successful school teacher.

1 ROWLAND STEBBINS ^{1} { Sarah ———— } son of Lewis Stebbins and Sarah Delavan, was born February 27, 1802, at Poughkeepsie (or Beekmantown), New York; died June 1 (or 4), 1888; married August, 1834 (or June 28, 1832), at Rochester, New York, to ELIZA WHITE, born September 13, 1802, at Colchester, Connecticut; died December 22, 1859, at Detroit, Michigan, who was a daughter of Samuel White and Rachel Porter. Resided at Detroit, Michigan.

CHILDREN:

5222. I. Dwight Delavan, born May 24 (or 6), 1835; married Martha Frances Strong.+
5223. II. Edward Payson, born December 31, 1837, at Troy, Michigan; died August 12, 1874.
5224. III. Theodore, born at Utica, Michigan.

NEHEMIAH DELAVAN STEBBINS was engaged, during a part of the years 1820 and 1821, with the corps of civil engineers in the construction of the New York & Erie (Grand) Canal on that portion between Rochester and Lockport. Albion Village is located on the Port (being about twelve miles from the canal), on which he was stationed, under Davis Hurd, as advisory resident engineer, and David Thomas, principal engineer of the western section of the canal extending from Rochester to Buffalo. After this he studied medicine with Dr. A. F. Oliver in the village of Penn Yan, Yates County, New York. He afterwards attended the Hosack, Mott and Francis Medical School in the city of New York. He first settled in Hammondsport, Steuben County, New York.

In the year 1836 he removed to Troy, Oakland County, Michigan. During the year 1838 he removed to Utica, Macomb County, Michigan. His health and that of his family drove him from this place in the spring of 1841, to Detroit. Not improving materially in health, in the spring (April) he moved again with his family to Warsaw, Wyoming County, New York.

During the summer of 1845, he, with his family, visited his and his wife's friends in New York City and Eastern Connecticut. On their return, by invitation of some friends in Detroit (Alanson Sheeley, Esq., J. S. Farrand and others), he was induced to return to Detroit and enter upon the practice of his profession. Soon after removing to Detroit he rented a house at 26 W. Congress street, and afterwards purchased it.

He had practiced but little in the last fifteen or twenty years, so that he was better known to an older generation than to many of those now in active life, although not a few of even these have to thank his skill that they survived the perils of childhood. His practice was very extensive and laborious and it is no wonder that, with his keen sympathies, his head early whitened with the snow that never melts.

Of late years much of his time has been spent in California with an only sister, or with a brother in Dowagiac, in the western part of Michigan.

EDWARD PAYSON STEBBINS prepared for college at Oberlin, Ohio, and after his preparatory course entered the Freshman Class. For some reason he gave up his collegiate course and studied law at Detroit. After attending the law school at Ann Arbor University he was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of Michigan.

The War of the Rebellion breaking out about this time, he offered himself, in 1861, as a soldier for his country, and acted as an orderly in one of the companies of the 13th Michigan Volunteers. He was at Shiloh, Mississippi, near Pittsburgh Landing, in the heart of the battle at that place, and after the evacuation of Corinth by the rebels, he was attacked with a severe sickness and was sent home, arriving at his father's house two days before his brother's remains arrived in Detroit. Being very ill and broken down in health, the surgeon of Camp Backus, Dr. L. Pitcher, reported him for discharge from the United States Army on account of disability. He was discharged from military service in the summer of 1862. Recovering, measurably, his health, he went to California the following spring and there entered the Army of the Pacific for two years. While on the coast of the Isthmus he was again taken down with sickness and sent to the hospital at Panama. The militia left, supposing him dead, but, to his officer's astonishment, he reported himself as ready for duty.

After the close of the campaign, in which he again acted as orderly sergeant, he engaged in various enterprises, such as mining, traveling agent and salesman of medicines, etc. He was in partnership with a lawyer and their office was in his house. The house was burned and they lost all their law books, as well as everything else. He gave up all further attempts at law.

For a while he traveled with a panorama of the battle of Pittsburgh Landing, giving a description of the battle at each entertainment. He wrote in the Land Office at Marysville. It seems that he always proved faithful to his employers. He finally returned to San Francisco and worked in a sugar refinery the last two years of his life.

He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of San Francisco.

daughter of Benjamin Stebbins and Catherine M. Pugsley, was born February 1, 1854, at Pawling, New York; married October 11, 1876, at Pawling, New York, to REV. ARTHUR REQUA, born May 19, 1856, at Patterson, Putnam County, New York, who was a son of Isaac Requa and Ellen Crosby. Profession, minister. Religion, Presbyterian. Residence, Noroton, Connecticut. No children.

ARTHUR REQUA was in earlier years a very successful teacher, being at different times employed in various schools in the towns of Patterson and Pawling, New York, besides two or three terms in a select school which he established in Patterson. His first experience in teaching, however, was when he attended the Peekskill Military Academy as a cadet. It is worthy of note after his successful pastorate of over twelve years in the Darien Church, that MR. REQUA was made, as ministers were made in the good old times, without college or theological seminary, but by personal application to study, under the guidance of successful pastors. He was ordained at Darien Church, January 24, 1887. He was in the Assembly of 1895, which was held at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, and was in the Synods of 1891, 1892, 1893 and 1894. In October, 1892, he was elected Moderator of the Westchester Presbytery. In 1897 he was at the head of the editorial staff of "The Connecticut Sunday School Record." MR. REQUA is a stalwart Christian Endeavor man, and is chairman of the committee on Young People's societies in Westchester Presbytery. He is a model Presbyter, never having been absent from any of the regular annual meetings since he was licensed, except once, when he was absent as a delegate to the Christian Endeavor convention at St. Louis. He is kept at the desk as temporary clerk of the Presbytery.

REV. ARTHUR REQUA
Husband of No. 3415

MRS. REQUA is an exemplary pastor's wife. She is organist in the Sunday School and the mid-week prayer-meeting; and teacher in the Sunday School and also in the church sewing school. She has been treasurer of several church organizations, and is a very helpful member of the Christian Endeavor Society, being popular with the young people.

HENRY GEORGE STEBBINS attended the public schools and in 1826 was one of the pupils at the high school of which D. H. Barnes was principal. It was his father's intention that he should become a lawyer and for that purpose he was sent to a private school preparatory to entering college. While there he was accidentally struck on the head with a heavy ruler, and from the effects of the blow he was sick for a long time. When he recovered his mother would not consent to his return to school, so his father, who was then president of the old North River Bank, took him into that institution as a messenger. He exhibited such aptitude for the banking business that he was rapidly advanced. He held subordinate positions in other banks, but before he had reached his majority he began a brokerage business on his own account. His first dealings were in "uncurrent money" of which there was considerable in those days, in both specie and notes of state banks.

MR. STEBBINS was elected a member of the Stock Exchange in 1833, before he was twenty-one, being the youngest person ever admitted to that body, and at the time of his death he was the oldest member and his name stood first on the list of directors. He held the office of president of the Exchange for two terms, and was spoken of in the highest terms by all his associates. He suffered reverses occasionally. It is said that in the panic of 1846, he was the only "bear" in the market, and although he succeeded in covering all his ventures and took all the stock he had contracted for, he found difficulty in delivering it, as many of his customers were unable to accept. Another occasion when he is said to have lost heavily was in 1865, when he opposed the Milwaukee and Prairie du Chien "corner," organized by Stimson.

After his father's death he formed a partnership with his brother John, and after the latter's death, his cousin, Russell H. Stebbins, became his partner. In 1862 he was the junior partner in the well known firm of McAllister & Stebbins. He withdrew from this firm later and entered into partnership with S. Jandon, well known as the cashier of the United States Bank. After this partnership was dissolved he carried on business in his own name, and later took his son into partnership, the firm being known at the time of his death as Henry G. Stebbins & Son.

MR. STEBBINS held many responsible positions and was connected with many of the important financial events and trusts of New York City. He was president of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, and was vice-president, and for a long time a director, of the Erie Railway. He was re-elected a director in the New York, Lake Erie & Western Railroad a few days before his death. With Thomas A. Scott he was one of the original promotors of the Texas Pacific Railroad.

He was a member of the Old Light Guard, which was afterward reorganized as Company A of the Twelfth Regiment, N. G. S., New York, and he was later elected Colonel of the Twelfth Regiment.

MR. STEBBINS took an active interest in the public parks, and was one of the original commissioners of Central Park and was president of the board for many years.

In 1862, MR. STEBBINS was elected a member of the XXXVIII Congress, from the first district, comprising the counties of Richmond, Queens and Suffolk. He was appointed a member of the committee on ways and means and was enabled on account of his financial experience, to render the Government important service. Because of his patriotic course in Congress in opposing the Rebellion, the Democrats refused to renominate him. This induced MR. STEBBINS to resign before he had served more than half of his term. In doing so he published a letter stating that he had been elected by the Democrats, and as his constituents had refused to sanction his course in opposition to the taking of any steps to a peace calculated to weaken the national authority, or that required negotiations with men in rebellion who had not laid down their arms, and as he "should persistently adhere to these same principles and to the same action," he felt it his duty to resign and allow his constituents to elect a person who would represent their views.

After he left Congress he was again appointed Park Commissioner, having resigned on election to Congress. On November 23, 1871, he was reappointed Park Commissioner, and after serving six months withdrew from the board. When the new charter was passed, in 1873, Mayor Havemeyer nominated MR. STEBBINS as a Park Commissioner, and he was confirmed and elected president of the board, which position he held until 1877, when Mayor Ely renominated him for commissioner, but he was rejected by the Board of Aldermen because he refused to allow Tammany Hall to control the patronage of the Board.

MR. STEBBINS was made chairman of the "Committee of Seventy" at the time of the Tweed frauds in 1871, and generally had the credit of opposing Tammany Hall.

He was one of the founders and a director of the Academy of Music, and for a time was president of the Board of Directors. He was also president of the New York Philharmonic Society. He was one of the originators of the Dramatic Fund Association, and it is said that he assisted Clara Louise Kellogg in obtaining her musical education. He was president of the Arcadian Club, and at one time a vice-president of the Union League Club, and was also a member of the Manhattan Club. He took an active interest in yachting matters, and was Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, resigning that position in February, 1871. He was president of the Mutual Relief Association of the Stock Exchange, which was dissolved shortly before his death.

MR. STEBBINS took a lively interest in the World's Fair project and was one of the trustees and for a considerable time president of the New York Commission. Among the numerous public enterprises in which he interested himself was that of bringing the Egyptian Obelisk to this country, and it was through him, as President of Central Park Commission, that the Khedive of Egypt presented the Obelisk to the City of New York.

MR. STEBBINS was identified in a private way with many deeds of charity and benevolence. Few citizens of New York have ever been connected with so many public events of local importance as was MR. STEBBINS.

CHILDREN:

5311. I. Eva Isabel, born March 1, 1856; married Benjamin Daniel Callender.+

When a young man, before the days of railroads, GEORGE R. STEBBINS drove a six-horse team from Northfield, Massachusetts, to Boston, carrying farmers' produce and bringing back groceries and general merchandise for the country stores. This expedition, in those times, lasted about a week.

In 1840 there was great political excitement over the presidential election, and MR. STEBBINS was one of the musicians in the march of the people from Brattleboro, Vermont, to Stratton, Vermont, where the great orator, Daniel Webster, gave an address. The instrument he played was a B bugle which he afterwards presented to the Pocumtuck Valley Memorial Association of Deerfield.

MR. STEBBINS assisted his father at the ferry, and afterwards became owner, being in constant attendance for over forty years. In 1883 he removed to Northfield street, selling the ferry, which afterwards became the property of the Mt. Hermon Boys' School.

MR. STEBBINS spent considerable time during the last years of his life in travel. He was always faithful to his duties and a useful and reliable citizen.

5333. VI. Lulu Gertrude Lottie Lee, born July 15, 1864; unmarried.

JOHN STEBBINS LEE in early childhood evinced an intense love for books and read everything obtainable. He determined to obtain a college education and enter upon a profession. He attended the common schools until he was sixteen, and, besides the common English branches, pursued the study of Latin. When sixteen years of age he was qualified to teach school, but his parents thought it best for him not to commence until he was eighteen, at which age he taught his first school, in Guilford, Vermont. He afterwards taught two terms in Vernon, Vermont, in 1839 and 1840, and one term in Deerfield, Massachusetts, in 1842-3.

He entered Amherst College, July, 1841, and graduated in 1845, with a standing among the first ten in a class of thirty. In 1845-6 he taught in Swanzey, New Hampshire, as principal of Mount Caesar Seminary.

In July, 1846, he commenced his theological studies with Rev. Dr. Hosea Ballou, 2nd, at Medford, Massachusetts, the first President of Tuft's College. He was ordained June 24, 1847, at West Brattleboro, Vermont, where he was pastor of the Universalist Society for two years, 1847-1849, and was also principal of Melrose Seminary in 1847-8. In 1849-50 he was pastor of the Universalist Society of Lebanon, New Hampshire, also teaching one term there. He was associate pastor of the Union Society in Montpelier, Vermont, in 1850-51, and was assistant editor of "The Christian Repository." In March, 1852, he moved to South Woodstock, Vermont, and was principal of Green Mountain Institute for over five years and was also pastor of the Universalist Society of Woodstock during the years 1857-58-59.

In April, 1859, he accepted an invitation to become Professor of Latin and Greek in St. Lawrence University, at Canton, New York (a new institution, in which both sexes receive complete classical and scientific educations), where he labored as professor and acting president of the University, of which he was the founder. In 1868, being exhausted by his severe and unremitting labor of nine years, he was granted nine months' leave of absence and took a trip to Europe, Egypt and Palestine.

He left Canton July 8, 1868, and returned March 19, 1869. His journey was rapid, but he reaped rich fruits from it by reason of his previous extensive reading in history and the classics. He lectured extensively on his travels in New England and New York, and published articles in many periodicals. At the request of friends he prepared and published in January, 1871, a book entitled "Nature and Art in the Old World, or Sketches of Travel in Europe and the Orient."

He prepared and published a series of lectures, which he delivered to the theological students and afterwards collected in book form, entitled "Sacred Cities, Narrative, Descriptive, Historical," which treats of fifteen Biblical places, from Jerusalem to Rome. He has also written elaborate articles for the "Repository" and "Universalist Quarterly," and other periodicals, on literary, theological and scientific themes, during a period of nearly half a century.

In April, 1869, MR. LEE accepted the position of Professor of Ecclesiastical History and Biblical Archaeology in the theological department of St. Lawrence University, where he is still teaching, having taught in all sixty-one years, with the exception of three years spent in college. His tour in the East was a special preparation for this work, and frequent lectures were delivered by him to his students on subjects connected with his observations there. In 1875 MR. LEE received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity, from Buchtel College, Akron, Ohio.

LESLIE ALEXANDER LEE was graduated from the classical department of St. Lawrence University in 1872. He afterwards took a special post graduate course in Harvard University. He was an instructor in Goddard Seminary, Barre, Vermont, in 1873-74, and in Dean Academy, Franklin, Massachusetts, in 1874-76. He was then called as Professor of Geology and Zoology to Bowdoin College, in which position he has remained until the present time. In 1885 he received the degree of Ph. D. from St. Lawrence University.

JOHN CLARENCE LEE was graduated from St. Lawrence University in 1876, and from Harvard University in 1878. In 1876-77 he was an instructor in Dean Academy. He graduated from the theological department of St. Lawrence University in 1880, and was pastor of the Universalist Society in Perry, New York, in 1880-83, where he was ordained February 22, 1881. He was pastor of St. Albans, Vermont, in 1883-84, after which he was called to be Professor of Homiletics and English Literature in Lombard University, Galesburg, Illinois. He was elected President of that institution, but declined the honor. From 1896 to 1899 he was President of St. Lawrence University. In 1895 he received the degree of Ph. D. from his Alma Mater and in 1896 he received the degree of D. D. from Tuft's College.

FREDERICK SCHILLER LEE was graduated from St. Lawrence University in 1878, and pursued a post graduate course of study in biology at Johns Hopkins University for four years from 1881 to 1885, a portion of that time acting as instructor, and received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. In 1879-81 he was Instructor of Physical Sciences in Fort Plain Institute, New York, and afterwards spent a year in special study of biology, at Leipsic University, Germany.

In 1887-92 he was Associate Professor of Physiology in Bryn Mawr College, and then accepted the position of Associate Professor of Physiology in the medical department of Columbia College, which position he still holds.

FLORENCE JOSEPHINE LEE was graduated from St. Lawrence University (classical department) in 1882, and was Instructor of Natural Sciences in Fort Plain Institute in 1882-84. She was a student in vocal music in Boston and New York, and was for three years (1885-88) in the Leipsic Conservatory of Music, also studied under private teachers in Leipsic, Germany, and with Mr. William Shakespeare in London. She was Instructor of Vocal Music in Knox Conservatory of Music, Galesburg, Illinois, for five years (1889-95). In 1884 she received the degree of A. M. from St. Lawrence University. She still continues to teach music in various choirs.

LULU GERTRUDE LOTTIE LEE was graduated from the classical department of St. Lawrence University in 1885, and was Instructor in Latin in Westbrook Seminary in 1885-87. She pursued a three years' special course in the Student's Art League, New York, 1887-90, and then became Instructor of Art in the State Normal School at Fredonia, New York, where she remained two years. She then went to Paris, France, where she continued her art studies for three years. From 1895 to 1898 she taught art in New York City. She now resides in Canton, New York, where she still teaches art.

CHARLES HENRY STEBBINS in his early manhood, worked at the carpenter trade with his father, and later was employed in the shops of the Passumpsic railroad at St. Johnsbury, Vermont. In 1871 he removed to Manchester, New Hampshire, where he lived for six years, pursuing the occupation of contractor and builder, first as a member of the firm of Caswell & Stebbins, later continuing the business by himself. In the fall of 1877, he returned to Lancaster, New Hampshire, his old home, and engaged in the planing mill business, as a member of the firm of Leavitt & Stebbins. This firm did a prosperous business, but on account of failing health, MR. STEBBINS sold his interest in the mill and moved west. He resided at Elkhart, Indiana, in 1886-7, being employed in the locomotive shops of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad. He afterward removed to Wichita, Kansas, at which place he was employed as general foreman of the Burton Car Works, and remained there until 1889. From that time until 1893, he was foreman of the building department of the E. F. Halleck Lumber Company, at Denver, Colorado. The next two years were spent at Kirksville, Missouri, doing contracting and building. He finally returned to Lancaster, New Hampshire, where he still works at his trade.

The E. STEBBINS Manufacturing Company, brass founders and finishers, which have their extensive manufactory at Brightwood, was established by ERASTUS STEBBINS, a pioneer in the trade, at Chicopee, Massachusetts, in 1848.

MR. STEBBINS began life as a poor man. At the time he established the factory, the work was done in a small wooden shop, the chief articles manufactured being a patent molasses gate and faucet, of MR. STEBBINS' invention. These patents gave him the control of the market, for the first named, and aided him in competing so successfully with the makers of other faucets that he was able to make his business handsomely remunerative, and so very successful in every respect that his competition was seriously felt by older and larger establishments. As business increased, the shop at Chicopee became too small for economical management, and, finding better facilities in the city of Springfield for manufacturing, MR. STEBBINS removed his works there in 1861. The variety of his productions was largely and rapidly increased, being supplemented by a general brass foundry business.

The E. STEBBINS Manufactory has long been recognized as one of the leading industries of the Connecticut Valley, and the work produced takes its place with the best fine brass castings and plumbers' supplies manufactured in America.

He accumulated a handsome fortune and in 1868 he sold out his entire interest, shop, fixtures and patents, to Messrs. Hayden, Gere & Company, of Haydenville, Massachusetts, and retired from business.

After his retirement from business he devoted himself to the care of his large real estate interests.

MR. STEBBINS was prominent in town affairs, having been selectman in 1871, and a representative in the legislature twice, being first elected by the "know-nothing" party, and the second time by the Democratic party.

MR. STEBBINS was an organizer and director of the First National Bank of Chicopee, Massachusetts, and was for several years a trustee of the Savings bank.

He was an original charter member of the St. John's Lodge of Odd Fellows when it was organized in 1847, and continued his connection with it during his lifetime. He was also a prominent member of the Chicopee Lodge of Masons.

MR. STEBBINS was a zealous advocate of cremation. He had been a member of the New England Cremation Society, and later, when a crematory was established at Forest Hills in West Roxbury, he transferred his membership to that association. Here his body was taken after his death and cremated.

WILLIAM HARRISON STEBBINS removed in 1851 from Guilford, Connecticut, to Greenboro, Oswego County, New York, where he followed the occupation of a farmer, as well as that of a contractor and builder. In 1862 he enlisted as a private in the 110th Regiment United States Volunteers. He was soon promoted to the office of Sergeant and then to Orderly Sergeant. The regiment was taken from Baltimore to Ship Island, under General Banks, and took part in the Red River campaign. At the siege of Port Hudson MR. STEBBINS was one of the hand grenade volunteers to attack the fort. The regiment went from Port Hudson to Tortugas, where it stopped to recruit, and was sent from there to the southern coast of Florida as drill officers and to organize the Second Florida Cavalry. MR. STEBBINS was promoted to the office of Captain of Company D. After the close of the war he was appointed Provost Marshal at Monticello, Florida, in which capacity he served for about six months, then returned to his home in Greenboro. In 1870 he removed his family to Amsterdam, Montgomery County, New York, where he still resides, looking after the interests of his farm.

ENOS STEBBINS moved with his father, to the town of Barton, Tioga County, New York, in 1835. He lived with his father on the farm until he was twenty-one years old. From that time he followed the occupation of canvassing agent, during the summers, and taught school winters, until the fall of 1860.

He bought a farm, on which he lived until the fall of 1863; and then enlisted in the Eighth New York Artillery, and served during the war. He was honorably discharged, June 16, 1865.

He lived at Barton until the spring of 1885, when he removed to Dakota and settled on the lands opened for settlement by President Arthur's proclamation, known as the Winnebago and Crow Creek Reservation. He and his two oldest sons settled claims in the Big Bend, March, 1885. A month later President Cleveland revoked Arthur's proclamation, giving them sixty days in which to remove themselves and their effects from the Reservation. Thinking they had a right to the land, they stayed there until May, 1887, when they were moved by the United States troops, along with others who had located there. They then located on Chapelle Creek, where they are at present engaged in cattle raising.

5512. VIII. Eugene Lawrence, born August 21, 1875; dead.
5513. IX. Charles Arthur, born October 31, 1881.

For many years it had been known that the limestone rock underlying Page County, Virginia, was furrowed by crevices and in places worn into small caverns; but, previous to 1878, no one thought of finding a cavern excelling in beauty of design and ornamentation, all the other known caves in the world. In the summer of 1878, BENTON PIXLEY STEBBINS conceived the idea of a more complete exploration of one of the caves, with a view of making it an object of interest to tourists; and he invited the co-operation of the brothers, William and Andrew Campbell. They found enough to reward their laborious efforts; but, after many days their dreams of wondrous wealth vanished, when the law took the part of the poor farmer, who had almost given away his land, without knowing its underground value. During two years of litigation, the price of the land swelled to forty thousand dollars; and the three discoverers gave up their claims to a party of northern gentlemen, who had formed a company to buy up this underground wonder.

ISAAC KINNEY STEBBINS served in the regular cavalry for five years in the seventies, fighting the Indians in Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas.

son of Isaac Kinney Stebbins and Roxana Fletcher, was born September 1, 1840, at Barton, New York; married March 5, 1860, at New Orleans, Louisiana, to FANNY R. POOR, born about 1840, at Hyde Park, Lamoile County, Vermont, who was a daughter of George Poor and Rebecca Fletcher. Profession, surveyor. Politics, Republican. Religion, Methodist. Residence, Junction City, Kansas.

CHILDREN:

5520. I. Emily Lucinda, born July 30, 1861; married John Heidy.
5521. II. Mary Louisa, born March 14, 1863; married George Tracy.
5522. III. Charles Manly, born April 7, 1866; married Anna Wehrer.
5523. IV. Chloe Alice, born December 23, 1868; unmarried.
5524. V. William Franklin, born May 2, 1873; married Maggie Cox.

CHARLES BREESE STEBBINS removed with his father to Concordia Parish, Louisiana, in the fall of 1846. They remained there one year; then removed to Allegheny City, Pennsylvania. Here they lived until 1849, when they moved to Jefferson County, Pennsylvania, settling at Reynoldsville.

About the year 1851, CHARLES BREESE STEBBINS went to live with a farmer by the name of Austin Harmon, in Andover, Ashtabula County, Ohio, remaining with him until 1856, when he left to teach school in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania. He taught school winters, and went to school summers, until the fall of 1859, when he went to Concordia Parish, Louisiana, and taught school there until 1863.

In the spring of 1863, he was conscripted into the Confederate army, but did not serve. Having obtained a furlough of thirty days, from the officer who conscripted him, on the 11th of April, 1863, he and his family began their journey as refugees seeking the Union lines. We append his own story of their flight.

"I took my wife and two children with me, going down the river in a skiff. We traveled by night and lay in the bushes during the day. We went to the mouth of Red river, and found three of Farragut's vessels there. I had expected that he would take us on board and care for us, as the Confederates would certainly have killed me, had they caught me. But Farragut told me that it was against the rules of war to have women on war vessels, and he expected any day to be in a fight, so he would not take us on board, but did what was better for us. He told me of a man, living a few miles above Port Hudson, at whose home I would be safe until that place was taken, or until I could get past it into the Union lines. He gave us provisions and did all he could for our comfort, and, at night, set us adrift again—this time on the Mississippi river. We continued to travel by night and hide by day, until we reached the place to which we had been directed by Farragut. We found this man to be a friend of the Union cause, and a friend he proved to us. He kept us for several days, and then put us into the care of a party that he knew to be in the business of smuggling goods to the Union lines, and we were taken around back of Port Hudson, and entered the Union lines at Baton Rouge. From there the government sent us to New Orleans and around to New York; and we made our way to Reynoldsville, Pa., arriving there June 11, 1863, just two months from the time we started. Not finding my mother and brother there, I went to Titusville, in the oil region, where they had moved."

In the fall of 1866, he moved to Carlton, Madison County, Mississippi, and lived there until the fall of 1873, when he moved to Junction City, Kansas. Here he served three terms as County Surveyor, and two terms as County Treasurer.

In 1896, he ran for State Representative, on the Republican ticket, but was defeated by a very small majority. He has held the office of Councilman for several terms; and, at present (1899) is City Engineer. He is also a member of the school board.

WILLARD W. STEBBINS enlisted, in 1862, in the 130th New York Infantry. The regiment was afterwards transferred to the Cavalry service; and he finished his term in the 1st New York Dragoons. He participated in many hard fought battles, on the hills, slopes, and plains of old Virginia.

On July 27th, 1864, at Deep Bottom, Va., on the James river, he received a serious wound, the ball lodging in his chest, where it still remains. After his convalescence was over, he returned to his company; and was present on the field at the surrender of General Lee, April 5th, 1865.

After returning home, he engaged in farming in New York, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. In December, 1884, he settled in Kansas. From 1885 to 1895, he devoted his time to evangelistic work, as an ordained minister.

Becoming worn and fatigued with his work, he gave it up for a time; but expects soon to accept some branch of religious work.

MRS. MARY LAVINIA STEBBINS COLVIN.

CHILDREN, born at Lansing, Michigan:

5578. I. Stowell Cortland, born July 29, 1886.
5579. II. Cortland Bliss, born April 23, 1888.
5580. III. Francis Burgoyne, born November 9, 1895.

ARTHUR CORTLAND STEBBINS was educated in the Lansing public schools; was two years in the Michigan Agricultural College, and two years in the State University of Michigan.

In 1882 he accepted the office of clerk for the Lansing Wheelbarrow Company, organized in 1881, in which his father had a considerable interest. In a short time he was the first clerk to the superintendent, and two years later, was made superintendent, secretary and treasurer. The first two years he doubled the business, and, at this time (1899), the sales amount to about two hundred thousand dollars per year, while the company gives employment to about two hundred men.

ANNA BURGOYNE, his second wife, is a graduate of Hillsdale College, and was a teacher in the Lansing schools. She has a large acquaintance, and is highly esteemed by all.

son of Francois Rene Stebbins and Sarah Louisa Briggs, was born October 6, 1856, at Adrian, Michigan; married October 31, 1895, at Adrian, Michigan, to MYRA ELOISE BLISS, born May 27, 1859, at Adrian, Lenawee County, Michigan; died January 15, 1902, at Adrian, Michigan, who was a daughter of Almond L. Bliss and Almira A. Goff. Residence, Adrian, Michigan.

FREDERICK BRIGGS STEBBINS attended private and public schools in Adrian until eighteen years of age, when he entered his father's furniture and carpet store in Adrian, and acted as salesman therein until his father's death in 1892.

The three brothers, Francis G., FREDERICK BRIGGS, and Edwin J., continued the furniture and crockery business until 1898, when the partnership was dissolved, the oldest brother, Francis G., carrying on the business, which had been established in Lenawee county for over half a century.

FREDERICK BRIGGS STEBBINS entered the abstract office of his father-in-law, Almond L. Bliss, at Adrian, where he is at present engaged as manager of Real Estate and Insurance.

When in his teens he traveled extensively with his father. He acquired from his father a taste for collecting various curios and at present has interesting collections of antique arms, coins, stamps, china, etc.

During the last fifteen years he has devoted considerable of his leisure time to gathering historical and genealogical items on the Stebbins, Briggs and Cossitt families. His material pertaining to the Stebbins family was very graciously placed at the disposal of the compiler of the present work, and he has done all in his power to add to the completeness of the same.

MYRA ELOISE BLISS STEBBINS was graduated from the Adrian high school with the class of 1877, and later received a diploma from the music school of the college.

She was active in social, church and charitable work: and, in her quiet, characteristic way, completed a career that had been one continuous round of benefactions in the interest of others.

She was a director of the Adrian Woman's Club, a member of the Monday Music Club, and only a week previous to her death was unanimously chosen president of the Home Workers' Society of the Presbyterian church, of which she was a valued member.

son of Emeline Fitch Stebbins and Alexander Carlton King, was born May 9, 1836, at Terre Haute, Indiana; married December 31, 1860, at Lemont, Cook County, Illinois, to MARY ELIZABETH CARTER, born October 12, 1842, at St. Catherines, Canada, who was a daughter of John Carter and Margaret Telyea. Profession, physician and surgeon. Politics, Prohibition. Religion, Episcopal. Residence, Decatur, Illinois.

CHILDREN:

5610. I. Cora B. King, born May 30, 1862; married Frank P. Roach.
5611. II. Le Roy Carlton King, born August 2, 1867.

JAMES STEBBINS KING received his education in the common schools and select schools, and taught school for two years. In 1857 he commenced the study of medicine under Drs. Noble and Coleman, at LeRoy, Illinois. He continued his studies at Rush Medical College during the winter of 1858-9, and the following summer practiced with his preceptors. During the winter of 1859-60 he attended the Medical College of Ohio, from which institution he graduated March 1, 1860, and was appointed Resident Physician of St. Johns Hotel for Invalids. He practiced his profession at Lemont, Illinois, until August, 1863, when he entered the service of the United States as Assistant Surgeon in the army. He remained in service until the fall of 1865, in the various positions of Surgeon in charge of the 35th Iowa Infantry and of the Fourth Tennessee Cavalry, Post Surgeon at Vicksburg, Miss., Surgeon in charge of Officers General Hospital at Natchez, Miss., and Military Health officer of the city of Natchez. He left the service and entered upon the practice of his profession at Natchez, Mississippi, where he remained for ten years. In 1874 he removed to Decatur, Illinois, where he has been actively engaged in the practice of medicine ever since, except that on July 12, 1898, he again entered the service of his country as Assistant Surgeon. He was Surgeon in charge of the second Division's Hospital of the Fifth army corps at Santiago, Cuba, and of the Fifth U. S. Volunteer Infantry at the same place, until November, 1898, when he was transferred to Huntsville, Alabama, and was Surgeon in charge of the Third battalion of the First U. S. Infantry, with which he went to Pinar del Rio, Cuba, on the 1st of January, 1899, remaining there until the 15th of June, 1899. During the last four months of this time he was in charge of the Seventh U. S. Cavalry at that place. He was then transferred to Ft. Hamilton, New York, where he remained until October 31, 1899, part of the time being Surgeon in charge. After leaving the service he resumed the practice of Medicine at Decatur. He is a member of the different Masonic bodies, including Knight Templars; and is also a member of the various Medical societies.

son of Luther Lester Stebbins and Sophia Shaw, was born February 1, 1833 (T. R.), at South Wilbraham [now Hampden], Massachusetts; married October 19, 1859, at Clarksville, Missouri, to ELIZABETH P. WALSH, born May 7, 1838, at Providence, Rhode Island; died at Providence, Rhode Island, who was a daughter of Thomas Walsh and Mary R. Perry. Occupation, farmer. Residence, North Platte, Nebraska.

CHILDREN:

5613. II. Rufus P., born March 9, 1867.
5614. III. Thomas L., born March 3, 1871.
5615. IV. Gilbert Ross, born November 18, 1878.

LUCIEN STEBBINS received his education in the common schools of New England. In the year 1850 his father emigrated from Massachusetts toward the setting sun, and located at Pittsfield, Pike County, Illinois. MR. STEBBINS worked on his father's farm until he was twenty-five years of age. Soon after his marriage he went west, spending some time in Colorado, California, and other western territories, and finally settled on a homestead at North Platte, Nebraska, in 1873. He was a volunteer in the 8th regiment California Infantry during the civil war. He has always been a great mover in progressive politics; and is a firm believer in the principles of true populism, being known in western Nebraska, as the "Father of Populism." In 1896 he was elected to the state legislature on the Populist ticket. He is ever striving to present to the people, the fact that fusion is a device of the Democratic party, which they are using to destroy the independent organization of the People's party. His writings on this subject are well known throughout the Central and Western states, having been published extensively in papers from Denver to Philadelphia.

DAVID STEBBINS received his education at Skaneateles, New York. He early determined to earn his own living, and learned the trade of carriage trimming. At the age of twenty-one he went to New Haven, Connecticut, to perfect himself in his trade, remaining there two years.

After his marriage he removed to Talmage, Ohio, where he worked at his trade for a short time, then moved to Akron, Ohio. He remained in Akron five years, spent the next ten years in Canton, Ohio, doing business for himself. He next lived a few years at Wauseon, Ohio; and in 1869 removed to Toledo, Ohio, and there established a Carriage Manufactory. In 1876 he closed out his business, and three years later moved onto a farm near North Adams, Michigan.

JULIET STEBBINS learned to spin flax, when she was only eight years old. She was not tall enough to band the wheel, so they had to band it for her. Her father put legs on a plank, for her to walk on while she was spinning.

The winter before she was nine years old, she learned to spin wool, and could spin ten knots a day; the following summer she could spin twenty knots a day, going over it the second time to warp it.

When she was fourteen years old, she spun and wove thirty yards of cloth for grain sacks, weaving it kersey, with four treadles. She sold it and bought calico for dresses for her sister and herself, paying twenty-five cents a yard for it.

She learned the trade of tailoress with her sister, and worked from house to house, for two years. She then secured a position in a first class tailor shop, where she remained four months, and became very proficient in her trade. She then went from house to house, doing sewing. The wages paid her were two shillings six pence per day. She could make a pair of pants or a vest in one day, and a coat in four days, doing all the work by hand.

In 1849 she and her husband removed to Ingham County, Michigan, where they bought some land, and built a house in the edge of the timber, so as to be near neighbors. MR. TWOGOOD hauled oak logs to a mill, where he had them sawed into planks for the house. The house was built with the planks up and down, and was tall enough for an upstairs. The cracks were battened with narrow plank.

After living there two years, they moved to a farm about twelve miles north of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and built a house there. They afterwards sold this place, and removed to Iowa, where they lived about forty-three years. In 1889 they sold the farm and moved to Belle Plaine, where she still resides.

son of Amaziah Stebbins and Amanda Anderson, was born April 5, 1835, at Clinton, Oneida County, New York; died June 12, 1901, at Algoma, Wisconsin; married 1862, at Oshkosh, Winnebago County, Wisconsin, to FRANCES (ELLIOTT) NEWELL (widow of Jefferson Newell), born October 8, 1840, at Green Bay, Brown County, Wisconsin, who was a daughter of George W. Elliott and Juliana Crofoot. Occupation, cashier bank. Politics, Republican. Residence, Algoma, Kewannee County, Wisconsin. No children.

DE WAYNE STEBBINS went to Racine, Wisconsin, with his parents, when a baby. He received his common school education at Racine, and in 1852 received an appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, where he was a fellow cadet of Admiral George Dewey. After three years service he resigned and soon after accepted a position with the American Fur Trading Company, spending one winter as a clerk on Madeline Island in Lake Superior. In 1856 he removed from Racine to Ahnapee, Kewaunee County, Wisconsin, now the thriving city of Algoma, and since that time has made that place his home and has been closely identified with all of the material interests of that city.

In the late fifties he caught the gold fever and made the trip to the gold fields of California by way of New York and the Isthmus of Panama, returning in March, 1861, by the same route.

At the breaking out of the civil war he enlisted as a private in Company A of the Twenty-first Wisconsin Infantry which was sent to Louisville, Kentucky. Shortly after, in recognition of his naval training, he received an appointment as Acting Master's mate on the ship "Clara Dolson." He served in the same capacity from October 1, 1862, to July 7, 1864, on the famous "Carondelet" and "Mound City," being in all the engagements in which those boats participated during that time. During the storming of Haines' Bluff he was on the "Cincinnati," and on the night of April 17, 1863, ran the gauntlet of the Vicksburg batteries on the "Mound City," and assisted in transferring General Grant's army across the river. Returning to Vicksburg, he assisted at the siege and was present at the surrender of that confederate stronghold.

He took part in the Red River expedition under General Banks, in 1864, and saw a good deal of fighting. His ship, the "Mound City," was the first to pass over Bailey's famous dam, which saved the Union fleet on Red River. On July 7, 1864, he was promoted to Acting Master and transferred to the double turreted monitor "Kickapoo," serving as second in command of the ship with the gallant Farragut at Mobile. Later he was transferred to the frigate "Portsmouth."

At the close of the war he tendered his resignation to the Navy department, but they refused to accept it. They granted him a leave of absence for ninety days, and transferred him to the steamer "Michigan" stationed on Lake Erie. He resigned his commission in 1866. Had he remained in the Navy he would doubtless have attained high rank.

He returned to Ahnapee and became a partner in the forwarding firm of Boalt & Stebbins, a connection that continued until 1881, when he was appointed cashier of the Bank of Ahnapee, which position he occupied until his death. He was also publisher of The Algoma Record.

MR. STEBBINS was a member of the Kewaunee county board for twenty-seven years, and was a controlling spirit of both the county and school boards for many years. He entered state political life in 1870 when he was defeated for the Assembly. Two years later he was elected a member of the Assembly by an overwhelming majority, and has since been a prominent figure at Madison. He was elected to represent the first district in the state senate, and continued in the senate until his death. SENATOR STEBBINS was a much talked of candidate for the governorship of Wisconsin at the last state convention, and was one of the last to pull out of the race in favor of La Follette.

He was a member of the battleship commission which had charge of the launching of the "Wisconsin" at San Francisco recently. The fatigue consequent on the long journey across the continent was thought to have hastened his death.

MR. STEBBINS made an enviable record as a public officer, and was held in high esteem by his associates.

On April 5, 1901, the proceedings of the Wisconsin State Senate were of a peculiar character. It was the sixty-sixth birthday of SENATOR STEBBINS, and his colleagues remembered the occasion as well as his service to his state and country, by presenting him with a gold-headed ebony cane, many bouquets, floral designs, etc. The presentation speech was made by Senator Miller, as follows:

"Mr. President: I ask your indulgence for a few moments this morning. In permitting me to deviate from the regular order of things I know that it is unnecessary to ask the unanimous consent of the members of this body, for it is certain that I am voicing the sentiments of every member present when I state that we can well afford to lay aside for the time being the affairs of the state, to commemorate, in as fitting a manner as possible, such an important event as the sixty-sixth anniversary of the senator from the first district, SENATOR STEBBINS.

"Senator, as you view those beautiful flowers decorating your desk, believe me when I say that we know that to us they seem emblematic of your life, so near to nature and so free from ostentation and display. And that floral emblem, that anchor, seems to us symbolic of your early life, and emblematic of the safe anchorage you have in the hearts of the people of this state, and more especially of that anchorage you have in the hearts of the members of this body.

"Senator, in behalf of all the members of this senate, it is my pleasure to present to you this slight token of our veneration, love and esteem. In presenting you this token I am not unmindful of its inappropriateness; we well know that you do not need this cane; we well know that you possess still that vigor of youth that makes this token to you unnecessary; and that you never go lame. It is our hope and our wish that when the figures '66', representing the mile-stones of your life, are inverted, that you may still be with us, possessing the same attributes that you now possess.

"We, the younger members of this senate, have found by contact with you and by the verdict of your older colleagues, that, whereas, at times you may be wrong on matters of state and other things, if you are ever wrong it is only when you believe that you are right. We recognize that you possess those noble attributes of loyalty to your friends, loyalty to your country and ever jealous of your own honor. As an associate in early life of that man who immortalized himself in the hearts of his countrymen on that May morning, it is easy for us to believe that had you been there in his stead, in the same quiet but firm way, you, too, would have given the command, 'You may fire, Gridley, when you are ready.'

"As one who responded to the call of his country in the hour of danger, and when its dismemberment was threatened—that call emanating from the hero of heroes, the saviour of our land, I feel, in conclusion, like paying to you that tribute which was paid to him by the poet when he wrote:

'Nature, they say, doth dote,
And cannot make a man except on some wornout plan,
Repeating it by rote.

* * * * * *

But taking fresh soil from the breast
Of the unexhausted West,
Shaped a hero, new, brave, generous and true.' "

MR. STEBBINS was a member of the Masonic fraternity, and was for twelve years master of the lodge at Algoma. He was also a member of the Wisconsin Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion, and the Grand Army of the Republic, having been commander of the post at Algoma.

5819. V. Gilbert A., born December 23, 1886; unmarried.

AUSTIN E. STEBBINS was raised on a farm, receiving very little schooling and having few advantages, as was the lot of most farmer boys in those days. In 1862 he enlisted in the 88th Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and served through the war, his company taking part in nearly all the battles that were fought in Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia, being with Sherman on his march to the sea.

After the war MR. STEBBINS went to Nebraska, where he lived for five years. In 1877 he removed to Florida, and from there went to California. After living there two years he returned to Florida, where he expects to spend the remainder of his days.

MR. STEBBINS is a successful dealer in real estate, making a specialty of orange groves.

5917. III. James Le Ray, born February 17, 1894.

GRANT CASE STEBBINS spent his youth on the old homestead; but, at the age of twenty, he entered the business college at Dixon, Illinois, where his natural business ability was developed. Leaving school in 1883, he went west and entered into the employ of the Santa Fe Railroad Company, and at the same time engaged in the real estate business in Kansas and Nebraska, handling thousands of acres of agricultural lands.

After spending seven years in the west, he returned to Marseilles, Illinois, and opened up a real estate and insurance office. For over four years he represented the Cincinnati Underwriters Insurance Company as general agent of the west, having full charge of the state, with over one hundred agents. He succeeded in building up an excellent business, and now represents one of the largest insurance agencies in northern Illinois.

MR. STEBBINS is a broad-minded, public-spirited man, and has expended his time and money freely for the promotion of the prosperity of Marseilles. As a testimony to his merit, the citizens of Marseilles elected him mayor, giving him a large majority. He is a man of keen foresight and executive force, of marked energy and sound judgment. He owns a good stock farm in Brookfield township, and has other investments in the west. He enlisted for the Spanish-American war, and was made lieutenant, but his company was not called upon to perform active service.

son of John B. Stebbins and Mary Ellis Barber, was born August 16, 1858, at Brookline, Vermont; died January 19, 1886, at Cumberland Mountains, Tennessee; buried at Brookline, Vermont; married September 23, 1883, to HATTIE BELL LYON, who was a daughter of Daniel Lyon, of New York. Resided at Vernon, Vermont, and Tennessee.

ARTHUR B. STEBBINS passed his minority on the farm, gaining from his father the art of farming, and from his mother, the culture for a noble manhood. He acquired a thorough academic education. In the spring of 1878 he went to clerk in the store of his brother-in-law, in Rochester, Minnesota, but on account of the severe and prolonged illness of his father and his family, he being the oldest son, was called home to take charge of his father's business. In the spring he remodeled and constructed a new set of barns, and gave the business a new impetus. In the fall of 1880, he returned to Minnesota, as senior clerk for the firm, by which he had been previously employed. While there he assisted one of the partners, who was unused to farming, in selecting stock for a farm he had recently purchased near the city.

MR. STEBBINS was often consulted about the farm, and it gave him excellent opportunities for developing his genius in this direction. He made the herd books a study, and was sent to New England in the winter of 1882, by some prominent herdsmen of Minnesota, to make a selection and purchase of thoroughbreds. His selections met with such hearty success that he decided to resign his position in the store and devote himself to agriculture.

His father urged him to remain on the farm, but, ambitious to gain an independence by his own efforts, he and his wife left Vermont, October 11, 1883, and upon the arid, fertile plateau of the Cumberland mountains in Tennessee, he bought a tract of land, known in the early history of the country as a favorite retreat of the red man, and in this delightful climate he had commenced to build up and beautify a home, and gain for himself a laudable notoriety in the agricultural world, but in the bud of his ambition he was in an instant cut down. He and his brother-in-law, George Lyon, were at work in a wood near the house, when a tall oak stub, standing some thirty feet distant, fell and struck MR. STEBBINS to the ground, breaking the spinal column at the neck. So quick and sharp the deadly deed was done, that the skin was not even ruptured. This sudden death seemed strange to all who knew him. His remains were taken home to Brookline for interment.

5958. III. Irving Monroe, born December 7, 1871.
5959. IV. Abigail Ellen, born July 26, 1881.

FRANKLIN MONROE STEBBINS, in 1856, went to Houston County, Minnesota, and afterwards to Fillmore County, in the same state, remaining there until the war broke out. In August, 1862, he enlisted in the 7th Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, in which he served until August, 1865. He was married the same month, and in the spring of 1866, he settled in Rushford, Fillmore County, Minnesota, where he resided until the fall of 1870. He then moved to Martin County. The following March he took up a homestead of one hundred and sixty acres, in what is now called Galena township. With the exception of four years spent in Mankato during the grasshopper raid, he lived on the homestead until the winter of 1884-5, when he moved to Minneapolis, and worked at the carpenter trade until 1893. Business became so dull that he left in August, returning to Martin County, where he has since lived. He exchanged his homestead for Minneapolis property, and recently exchanged that for land in Crow Wing County, where he expects to settle.

Residence, Arlington, New Jersey.

CHILDREN:

5967. I. Kenneth Hickey, born February 26, 1883.

SAMUEL INGRAHAM HICKEY, after receiving a common school training, pursued his studies at Bloomsburg (Pa.) State Normal School, Washington and Jefferson (Pa.) College, and later attended Princeton Theological Seminary, graduating from that institution in 1884. In the same year he was ordained a Presbyterian minister, and installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bellevue, Pennsylvania. He became convinced, however, that no human institution could ever approximate the true church of Christ, and in 1886 he withdrew from all ecclesiastical connection. For several years he was engaged in colporteur work. Later on he was traveling representative of New York interests, then became editor of the "Commercial Enquirer," of

New York, and assistant editor of the "Dry Goods Chronicle." Early in 1898, being relieved of all commercialism, he was at last fully convinced, God's Spirit witnessing with his spirit, that Christ meant literally that his disciples were to "labor not for the food which perisheth," to "seek not," any temporal thing, but that "all things should be superadded" to one "seeking the Kingdom of God." Hence, his only and all-absorbing occupation is just the striving to enter the Kingdom with Christ.

Sarah ———

son of Homer Pease Stebbins and Sarah Elizabeth Kinney, was born January 17, 1876, at Atchison, Kansas; married January 18, 1899, at Kansas City, Kansas, to LYDIA HARMSTON, born February 13, 1872, at London, England, who was a daughter of Richard Harmston and Eliza ———. Occupation, clerk. Religion, Congregationalist. Residence, Kansas City, Missouri.

CHARLES MATHEWS STEBBINS spent the first ten years of his life in Atchison, Kansas. He was bright in some studies, but generally a little backward. The next four years were spent in Florida with his father, where he attended school for six months in each year, fished, canvassed for political papers, etc. At the age of fourteen he returned to Atchison, where he obtained work on the "Daily Patriot," carrying papers, etc., and remained with that paper for a year and a half. In 1891 he was sent to a school of Languages in New York for eight months—a venture of his uncle, Charles M. Stebbins. From June until October, 1892, he applied himself to farming in Kansas. He then went to Park College Academy, where he spent the winter, working his way. During September and October, 1893, he was on the chair force at the World's Columbian Exposition. He then bought a lantern and some views, and entered the lecture field, in which he had fair success. After continuing in this business for a year, he spent a year in Midland College Academy at Atchison. He and his brother then tried farming near Atchison, but did not make a success of it, so gave it up. He then went to Kansas City, where he worked in an art store. In February, 1896, he began to work for the Kansas City View Company, Photographers, remaining with them for sixteen months. In June, 1898, he accepted a position in the Photographic department in the store of D. C. Pruden, optician. A Stereoptican department was added to the business, and MR. STEBBINS now has charge of that in connection with the Photographic department. He still lectures. He is a very active worker in the Congregational church of which he is a member.

son of Elijah H. Stebbins and Lydia A. Roberts, was born September 3, 1860, at Sabinsville, Tioga County, Pennsylvania; married January 19, 1878, to ADDIE C. NEWTON, born May 11, 1860, at Sabinsville, Tioga County, Pennsylvania, who was a daughter of Moses Newton and Sallie M. Burdick. Occupation, proprietor of cigar factory. Politics, Republican. Religion, Methodist. Residence, Wellsboro, Pennsylvania.

CHILDREN:

6040. I. Gordon Elijah, born January 20, 1879.
6041. II. Clayton Maylon, born October 13, 1882.
6042. III. Hugh Worthington, born July 1, 1885.
6043. IV. Ila, born November 10, 1887; died April 11, 1889.
6044. V. Arlon Elder, born April 24, 1890.

MILFORD HAMILTON STEBBINS was reared and educated in his native township, attending the district school at Sabinsville, Pennsylvania. Later he attended the Knoxville (Pa.) High School, and Woodhull (N. Y.) Academy, and was successful in passing a regent's examination in New York State.

When eighteen years of age, he began assisting his father in a general store and lumber business, and after his father's death he took charge of his business. In 1883 he purchased his uncle's interest in the lumber business, and was appointed guardian for the other heirs. He conducted the business under this arrangement until April, 1884, when the estate was divided, he and his brother George taking the mill property, the store having been burned in 1881. They conducted the business until 1886, when he purchased his brother's interest and operated the mill until its destruction by fire in 1893.

MR. STEBBINS has held several local township offices, being auditor of Clymer township for ten years, assessor one term, and assistant assessor two terms. In 1890 he was census enumerator; and in November of that year he was elected county commissioner of Tioga County, Pennsylvania, on the Republican ticket, serving in that capacity for three years.

In 1890 he commenced contracting for the erection of buildings, bridges, etc., and in 1891 removed to Wellsboro, Pennsylvania. Upon the expiration of his term as county commissioner, in 1894, he formed a partnership with Mr. C. N. Butts, the firm being known as Butts & Stebbins; and engaged in contracting for stone and brick work, bridges, pile-driving, etc. This partnership continued until the death of Mr. Butts, in 1897, since which time MR. STEBBINS has conducted the business alone.

In January, 1894, he bought a one-half interest in a cigar factory at Wellsboro, forming the firm of C. A. Yale & Co. After one year, he purchased his partner's interest in the factory, and has since continued the business as the Wellsboro Cigar Factory, employing his cousin, Melvin B. Stebbins, to superintend the factory.

In 1899 he was elected as one of the Councilmen of Wellsboro, occupying that office for two years. He was appointed by President McKinley, in 1900, as one of the Census Supervisors of Pennsylvania, his district being known as number eleven, and comprising the counties of Cameron, Clinton, Potter, Lycoming and Tioga. At present he holds no office, but devotes his entire time to his business interests. He is an active, energetic and enterprising business man.

MR. STEBBINS is a member of Westfield Lodge No. 477, F. & A. M., Westfield Chapter No. 265; and of Tyagaghton Commandery No. 28, and Wellsboro Lodge No. 374, Knights of Pythias.

daughter of Heman Stebbins and Sarah May Paine, was born February 6, 1829, at South Brookfield, Worcester County, Massachusetts; married December 30, 1847, at Providence, Rhode Island, to ALBERT HENRY CAMPBELL, born October 23, 1826, at Charleston, West Virginia; died February 23, 1899, at Ravenswood, Jackson County, West Virginia, who was a son of Mason Campbell and Mary Stone Chaddock. Profession, civil engineer. Politics, Democrat. Religion, Episcopalian. Residence, Ravenswood, Jackson County, West Virginia.

CHILDREN:

6086. I. Edward Stebbins Campbell, born November 24, 1850, at Washington, D. C.; died February 10, 1863, at Richmond, Virginia. ginia.

6087. II. Fanny Chaddock Campbell, born July 10, 1860, at Liberty, Virginia; died October 2, 1868, at Bristol, Rhode Island.

6088. III. Albert Mason Campbell, born September 16, 1862, at Liberty, Virginia; civil engineer.

6089. IV. Charles Mitchell Campbell, born December 6, 1864; married Eugenia Chalmers Fairfax. He is an Episcopal clergyman.

ALBERT HENRY CAMPBELL turned his attention to the study of civil engineering, a profession for which he had great taste and in which he became a master.

He was assistant engineer in the location of the Orange and Alexandria railroad and of the Norfolk and Petersburg; at twenty-five he was chief engineer under the direction of the war department in the explorations made by the government in 1851-2 and 3, for the southern railroad route to the Pacific, and crossed the continent twice in the discharge of his duties, and afterwards located in Washington for several years in connection with his associates in making his reports. These reports may be found in the department at Washington. They fill several volumes and are models in beauty of execution and wonderfully clear in the description of the routes surveyed and the topography of the country along this line. He was also chief of the bureau of roads and highways in the interior department at Washington.

At the outbreak of the war he cast his fortune with the side of the Confederacy, and joined the Confederate army as lieutenant of engineers under General Stevens, chief engineer of the Confederate government. He was promoted to captain and then to major, and had charge of the topographical department of the army of northern Virginia. The war maps of that army were gotten up by him and under his supervision, and were submitted to him for approval before they were issued. They were models in clearness and beauty of execution and accuracy of detail.

He was a warm personal friend of General Lee. He was with him at the evacuation of Richmond and spent the entire day with him at the surrender at Appomatox. General Lee and staff improvised a seat by a fence under the shade of an apple tree, and from that point Lee's negotiations with Grant upon the terms of surrender took place, although the papers were not actually executed there. MAJOR CAMPBELL remarked to his comrades, after the negotiations were concluded, "Gentlemen, this is an historical tree, and I cut the first branch from it," and reaching up he cut from the tree, a branch, which his family still have carefully labeled. Before the soldiers separated at the time of the surrender, trunk, branches, twigs and roots of the tree were gone. MAJOR CAMPBELL was paroled at the surrender and lived for a while in Rhode Island, engaged in newspaper and other work. In 1869 he returned to Charleston, where he was appointed assistant engineer both in the survey and construction of a portion of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. He was the chief engineer under the appropriations made by the state of West Virginia, for a survey of the route, by way of Elk River, to the Pennsylvania line, afterwards called the Northern and Southern West Virginia railroad. He was chief engineer of the surveys for the Potomac and Ohio, and Baltimore, Cincinnati and Western railroads, and other lines through the state by the Elk River route. He was the first chief engineer of the Wheeling, Parkersburg and Charleston railroad, now the Ohio River railroad.

ALBERT M. CAMPBELL was an efficient engineer in the construction of the improvement of the Kenawha River.

REV. CHARLES M. CAMPBELL, a pastor of the Protestant Episcopal church, is now located at Ravenswood, West Virginia.

"The address of ALBERT K. STEBBINS before the Men's Club at the Ethical building Friday night was a very thorough discussion of the conditions in France, which made the Dreyfus case possible and in fact almost inevitable. MR. STEBBINS not only gave concisely and clearly the facts regarding the charges against Captain Dreyfus, the conspiracy of the army staff against him, and his two trials, but a very comprehensive sketch of French history during the past century as explaining the development of conditions which made 'the Dreyfus case' possible."

FRED DANIEL STEBBINS left school at the age of seventeen. Determined to earn his own living, he applied to a grocer and was given a position at three dollars per week; but, after the first week, he struck for higher wages and was told that, if the wages did not suit him, he could look elsewhere. He soon secured a position with Leon & Jennings, at four dollars per week, which was soon advanced to six dollars. After being with this firm for six months, he was induced to accept a situation on the farm of his step-father, receiving twelve dollars per month, and his board.

At the age of nineteen, he began work in the hardware store of Charles F. Bock & Son, remaining with them twelve years. Soon after he entered this store, the firm engaged a lady bookkeeper, who made such an impression on MR. STEBBINS, that he persuaded her to become his bookkeeper for life.

In 1898 he went to Bozeman, Montana, where he is connected with the firm of Benepe-Owenhouse Co., as manager of their hardware department.

son of Joseph Stebbins and Mary Elizabeth Grundy, was born June 14, 1850, at Petersburg, Dinwiddie County, Virginia; married July 24, 1872, at Black Walnut, Halifax County, Virginia, to WILLIE S. FOURQUREAN, born November 7, 1849, at Black Walnut, Halifax County, Virginia, who was a daughter of Reuben D. Fourqurean and Mary Boxley. Occupation, banker and wholesale dry goods merchant. Residence, South Boston, Virginia.

CHILDREN:

6182. I. Son, born December 6, 1873; died in infancy.
6183. II. Joseph, born November 5, 1874.
6184. III. Charles Russell, born August 1, 1877; died September 6, 1877.
6185. IV. Laura May, born September 16, 1878.

The youth of JOSEPH STEBBINS up to the age of fourteen, was spent in the city of Richmond, Virginia. The first school he attended, beginning in 1855, was taught by Miss Virginia Danforth. He attended one session during the winter of 1859-60, a preparatory school at the home of Col. Thomas Taylor, in Goochland County, and afterwards he attended the classical school of R. H. L. Tighe, in Richmond.

In 1864 he secured a position in a country store at Black Walnut, in Halifax County, Virginia. After he had been there several months the terrible catastrophe occurred, which deprived him of parents, sister and brothers. He continued at this place, working himself up by degrees, until on January 1, 1871, he was admitted to an interest in the business. In 1872 the firm opened a branch store at Turbiville, Virginia, of which he was given charge. In 1876, having previously sold his interest in the business at Black Walnut and Turbiville, he removed to South Boston, Virginia, which was then just beginning to show some little evidence of growth and prosperity, and he has continued to live here ever since—in a certain measure having grown up with the town. In the quarter of a century that he has been here he has seen the town grow from a little straggling village of probably two hundred inhabitants to a town of four thousand people, with paved streets, electric lights, water works, etc. Ever since his removal here he has been a member of the firm of Stebbins & Lawson, who for a long time did the largest mercantile business in this section of Virginia. For the past seven years he has been in the wholesale dry goods and notion business, being President and General Manager of the Stebbins, Lawson & Spragins Company. He is also President CHARLES HYDE STEBBINS assisted his father in various railroad offices. He served in the civil war, and was wounded at the battle of Chickamauga and left on the field as dead. He was found by a comrade and carried to the hospital at Menan, Georgia, where he was nursed to health by his devoted mother; but all his life he suffered from the effects of the wound. He was a man of excellent character and great ability.

HENRY WRIGHT when eighteen years of age enlisted in the navy for service during the civil war, and was assigned to duty on the gunboat Daylight. He was at the siege of Fredericksburg, and was then cruising along the coast of North Carolina to close the blockade of ports. He with several companions, was out with small boats trying to capture a rebel vessel in shallow water, when their boat was capsized and they were obliged to get to the shore, where they were taken prisoners. He was confined in Libby prison three weeks, and was then exchanged, and put on another war vessel, which was sent to New Orleans. Here he was transferred to the flagship Hartford with Farragut, and was in the fight at the taking of Mobile. After serving three years he was honorably discharged.

daughter of Martha Annette Stebbins and Charles John Thornton, was born April 15, 1858, at Galena, Jo Daviess County, Illinois; married February 1, 1881, at Stromsburg, Polk County, Nebraska, to CHARLES CHRISTIAN BENSE, born March 6, 1848, at Germanville, Iowa, who was a son of ——— Bense and Sarah E. Evers. Occupation, lumberman. Politics, Republican. Religion, Congregationalist. Residence, Clay County, Nebraska.

CHILDREN:

6334. I. Charles Frederick Bense, born December 1, 1882.
6335. II. Thornton Bense, born February 6, 1890.

The following reminiscences by Mrs. Bense will prove interesting:

"One day I was wading in a mud puddle, long after I had been told to get out of it, and Grandfather [No. 1633, Lyman Stebbins] informed me I would get warts on my fingers if I didn't stop playing with frogs and mud. I did not stop until I was quite ready, and when I was neat and trim, showed him my hands, which were unblemished. 'Never mind,' said he, 'the warts are sure to come, some day.' Year after year passed away; no warts came. Grandfather died, and my fear of warts was removed. When I was quite a young lady, and teaching school, warts appeared on my right hand—the hand that had played with the frogs—and as I first noticed them my imagination could hear Grandfather say, 'Never mind, they are sure to come, some day.'

"I early acquired a distaste for piecing quilts because my Grandmother Stebbins kept me busy out of school hours hemming impossible handles on impossible baskets, and I faithfully promised her that I would never piece a quilt when I was grown up, to which promise I have adhered, as life is too short to fritter away on quilt piecing."

Mrs. Bense taught school several years before her marriage. She is greatly interested in reform movements of all kinds, and is a member of the W. C. T. U., Equal Suffrage Association, and Ralston Health Club.

daughter of Harriet Almira Stebbins and James Sawyer Lewis, was born October 27, 1866, at Apple River, Jo Daviess County, Illinois; married November 24, 1898, at Rush, Jo Daviess County, Illinois, to SHERMAN IRA POOL, born May 20, 1864, at Upper Sandusky, Wyandot County, Ohio, who was a son of Ira Pool and Lucy Eggleston. Occupation, farmer. Politics, Republican. Religion, Protestant. Residence, Rush, Illinois.

MINNIE ALICE LEWIS received her education in the public schools of Jo Daviess County, and the State Normal University at Normal, Illinois. For twelve years she was a successful teacher in the public schools of Jo Daviess County, teaching seven years of that time in one school.

Taking a great interest in genealogy, in the summer of 1897 she spent three months in making a pilgrimage to the homes and graves of her ancestors in Ohio and New York, visiting the oldest members of both her father's and mother's families, hunting up old family records and documents, in which she was most kindly and cordially assisted by all whom she visited, and succeeded in securing much valuable information in regard to family history. After her marriage, she and her husband took up their residence on a farm adjoining that of her brothers', which MR. POOL purchased and named "Clovernook." Both MR. and MRS. POOL are great workers in the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Society, and take an active interest in the study of literature, being members of Chautauqua Circle classes of 1901-2. MR. POOL is very much interested in the politics of the country, and is a great student of History.

6338. III. W. Irl, born March 29, 1895.

WILLIS M. STEBBINS attended the country schools and Sherman Academy, until he was nineteen years of age, when he commenced teaching. He taught two terms in New York state, and, in April, 1884, went west and located near Farnam, Nebraska, on a homestead and timber claim.

He worked on the farm during the summer months, and taught school in the winter, until the fall of 1889, when he proved up on his land, sold his homestead, and, with the money derived, with what he had saved from teaching, he started a hardware store in Gothenburg, Nebraska. He has been successful in that business, and owns a good home in the town, besides his business property. For the last five years he has served the community on the school and town boards.

son of Dr. Nehemiah Stebbins and Eliza White, was born May 24 (or 6), 1835, at Warsaw (or Hammondsport), New York; died July 18, 1862, at Cairo, Illinois; married November 8, 1860, to MARTHA FRANCES STRONG, born August 6, 1837, who was a daughter of Col. Nelson Strong and Lucy West Russell.

CHILDREN:

6367. I. Emily Dwight Russell, born October 4, 1861, at Detroit, Michigan.

DWIGHT DELAVAN STEBBINS graduated at Ann Arbor, Michigan, in the literary department; after which he attended two courses of medical lectures at the same university; in the mean time attending two courses of medical lectures in the city of Detroit, under Drs. A. B. Palmer and Zina Pitcher. He then spent a year in the Alms House Hospital in the city of Buffalo, as assistant physician.

He attended the medical lectures in the College of Physicians and Surgeons in the City of New York, attending in the meantime, the Bellevue and New York hospitals. In the spring of 1860, he received the degree of M. D. from this last school of medicine which he attended. He then returned to Detroit and commenced practicing his profession with his father.

During the war of the rebellion, it was the wish of DOCTOR STEBBINS to see our army and do something himself for the good of our soldiers. He volunteered his services to the Soldiers' Aid Association of Michigan, to take supplies to the Michigan troops in the Western army on the Mississippi River and Valley, Benjamin Verner, Esq., being secretary, and Charles Bupe, president. His services were accepted by W. A. Butler and others, and he was promised the assistance of L. B. Willard, Esq., to accompany him. They left Detroit January 4, 1862, with supplies for Michigan Regiments, then in Tennessee and Mississippi. They proceeded to Corinth, Mississippi, and distributed to the tenth, twelfth, fourteenth, and fifteenth regiments, the tenth and fourteenth being at Big Springs, a few miles from Corinth. After distributing to these regiments their quota of supplies, he acted as assistant physician in the tenth regiment, in the absence of one who had left on account of sickness; and it is said he overtasked himself in his care of the sick.

He was taken sick with the prevailing fever, called "Walking typhoid fever," with which many were known to die while walking about. He was attended by Drs. Batwell and Sparling of the fourteenth regiment. An attempt was made to remove him to his home in Detroit, by railroad from Corinth to Columbia, on the Mississippi; and then by steamer to Cairo, Illinois, under the care of Lieutenant Van Stan. On arriving at the wharf at Cairo he was found to be sinking. Physicians were called, but were of no avail, and at about 12 a. m., July 18th, 1862, he died.

The funeral services took place at his father's residence, Reverend Doctor Duffield officiating. He was buried beside his mother in Elmwood Cemetery. He had made a profession of religion many years before, and was still a member of the first Congregational church of Detroit. On being questioned by Lieutenant Van Stan, who had charge of him at the time of his death, he said he should die and go to Heaven, and offered up, audibly, a fervent prayer, at an interval of a return of reason. His death produced a profound sensation in the city of Detroit, and was the subject of remark from a number of pulpits on the Sabbath after the news of his death.

Bishop Samuel McCrosky remarked after the funeral, that he had never witnessed so deep feeling and sympathy on an occasion of the like character, especially for a young man, who had no military eclat or anything of the kind to distinguish him from any other citizen, simply a retiring young professional man.

The members of the Delta Phi Fraternity in the vicinity of the city of Detroit, assembled on the occasion of the death of DR. DWIGHT D. STEBBINS, ordered a memorial record to be entered on the minutes of the Chapter of which he was a founder, in the University of Michigan, and to be sent to the other Chapters, and to his sorrowing family.

son of Pierre Alonzo Stebbins and Almira Brundage, was born December 22, 1831, at New York; died September 4, 1894, at Detroit, Wayne County, Michigan; married December 13 (or 15), 1859, at Bangor (or Milford), Maine, to ADELINE E. BAILEY, born January 3, 1834, at Milford, Maine, who was a daughter of Amos Bailey and Sallie Baloard. Occupation, lumberman.

CHILDREN:

6368. I. Addie A., born March 18, 1861; married William Cook Wilson.+
6369. II. William Pierre, born September 7, 1863.
6370. III. Lizzie, born October 23, 1864; died November 20, 1864.
6371. IV. Laura E., born May 10, 1872; died August 16, 1872.

ABRAM L. STEBBINS, when a young man, left his home in New York and went to Port Huron, Michigan, and afterwards removed to Detroit. For nearly a quarter of a century he was connected with the lumbering interests of Avery & Murphy, as one of their most valued and trusted agents; and, when the death of Mr. Newell Avery occurred in 1877, he was made one of the executors of his will, and aided in settling up an estate running up into the millions. Subsequently he was appointed Receiver of the E. T. Barnum Iron & Wire Works, and of the Huyett & Smith Manufacturing Company, adjusting the large business of both of these concerns to the satisfaction of all parties with whom he had dealings. During the last seven years of his life he was associated as confidential agent, with David Whitney, Jr. In all these important relations he was not only a capable and successful business man, but an honorable man, discharging his duties with scrupulous fidelity. For a number of years he was a member and trustee of the First Congregational Church of Detroit.

EDWARD NELSON STEBBINS after leaving the academy in Coudersport, Pennsylvania, spent two years in Wisconsin. In 1856 he returned to Coudersport, where he engaged in the mercantile business. On June 10, 1861, he was appointed by President Lincoln, as an office paymaster and military store keeper in the ordnance department, U. S. A., and stationed at Washington Arsenal, D. C., and served in this capacity during the civil war. During the time he was stationed at the arsenal, President Lincoln was assassinated and the attack was made on the whole cabinet. After Booth had paid the penalty for his crime, his body was taken from the navy yard to the penitentiary (then located in the arsenal grounds) and buried at night in a grave dug in one of the cells by order of Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War. The key was taken to Secretary Stanton, who enjoined secrecy on MR. STEBBINS and the other officers. Booth's body remained there until it was delivered to his brother, Edwin Booth, some time later.

After the war was over and the army returned from the South, MR. STEBBINS resigned his office of Major and returned to civil life to engage in the hardware business at Bridgeport, Connecticut. In 1871 he removed to Summit, New Jersey. In February, 1877, he was appointed as a member of the board of Indian Commissioners, by President Grant, to take the place of W. E. Dodge, of New York City. After serving two years he sent in his resignation to President Hayes.

He removed to Coudersport, Pennsylvania, in 1878, and engaged in the mercantile business. In 1887 he was appointed postmaster by President Cleveland, serving for over four years. He removed to Barron, Wisconsin, in 1891, and is at present president and manager of the Barron Stave and Heading Company of that city. He has served six years as chairman of the board of education, and has also served as Mayor of the city.

EDWARD NELSON STEBBINS, JR., is vice-president and superintendent of the Barron Stave & Heading Company.

son of Fanny Reed Wooster and George Ashley Appleton, was born July 2, 1854, at Victory, Essex County, Vermont; married September 24, 1885, at Albion, Orleans County, New York, to ELLA LOUISE (JOHNSON) WIRT, born June 12, 1852, at Albion, Orleans County, New York, who was a daughter of ——— Johnson. Profession, minister. Religion, Congregationalist.

CHILDREN:

6507. I. Frances Wirt Appleton, born April 12, 1887.
6508. II. Harold Gilman Appleton, born July 24, 1889.

FAYETTE GILMAN APPLETON'S grandfather, Rev. John Wooster, was a Congregational Minister, and the one influential in building the church where the Appletons for two generations attended worship. Among the earliest recollections of FAYETTE, is the memory of riding to this church, in the family carriage, to listen to two long sermons, while the Sunday School hour was sandwiched in between. FAYETTE, with his two sisters and two brothers, thought it no hardship to attend these services; but, rather, counted it a punishment to be required to remain at home.

Religious books and periodicals were provided in the home, and received a good degree of attention from this farmer boy, during his leisure moments. With the exception of twenty-five or thirty weeks of schooling in St. Johnsbury Academy, his schooling, while at home, was limited to such advantages as home and the winter terms of country schools afforded. The heavy work on the farm had disabled him somewhat, and he naturally turned his mind away from farming as a means of gaining livelihood. In September, 1875, having acquired his majority, he began to give some serious thought to the matter of acquiring an education; and, having earned his first money, ninety dollars, he made his way to the college town of Oberlin, Ohio, with no very definite plans for the future in view. The spirit of the place, however, soon awakened all his old desires for an education, and led him to undertake the laborious task of "working his way" through college. At the time of his conversion and his joining his home church young APPLETON had some presentiments that he ought to devote his life to the work of the Christian ministry; but not until one year had been spent at Oberlin, did he fully decide to do so. Doubting somewhat his ability to accomplish so great an undertaking without financial help, and fearing that any avowal of his plans might be interpreted as schemes of an impostor to secure financial aid, he determined to keep his own counsel in the matter. Not even his mother became aware of his determination until he was about to enter upon the study of Theology. After nine years of patient work and study, MR. APPLETON was able to graduate from the theological department in 1884, receiving the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. He at once entered upon his work as a home missionary in South Dakota, where, during the six years of his labors in that state, he was able to organize one new church; complete the erection of two church buildings, dedicating them free from debt, and assist in the building of one parsonage. In December, 1890, he accepted a call to become the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Lyons, Colorado; and in June, 1894, he received a call to his home church in Vermont, where he remained for three years. On account of the severity of the New England winters, he decided to return to the western states, which he accordingly did, becoming pastor of the church at Linwood, Nebraska; and in the following year (1899), became joint pastor of the Linwood and Arlington Churches. MR. APPLETON'S labors as a pastor have been uniformly successful, and he has personally conducted four or five revivals on his own fields, and assisted in others. He is frequently called upon to address bodies of students; and has represented his local association in the National Council, besides doing his share of official work in religious bodies. As an author his efforts have been limited to have a score of printed sermons on topics of popular interest, a few newspaper articles, one or two short stories, and a volume not yet published. As a public speaker, he might be characterized as forcible, rather than flowing or especially eloquent.

DEACON EDWARD STEBBINS OF HARTFORD.

1. DEACON EDWARD STEBBINS, born in England; died in 1668 at Hartford, Connecticut; married FRANCES ———, who died between November 12 and December 23, 1673, at Hartford, Connecticut. Occupation, probably a tanner.

CHILDREN:

2. I. Daughter; married John Chester; lived in or near London, England, in 1670, and had sons, John and Sampson.
3. II. Mary; married Walter Gaylord, April 22, 1648.+
4. III. Elizabeth; married first, Robert Wilson; married second, Thomas Cadwell.+

EDWARD STEBBINS is supposed to have come to this country from Braintree, Essex County, England, in 1632. He was made freeman at Cambridge, Massachusetts, in 1634, on the same day on which Rev. Thomas Hooker and others took the oath, although Hooker did not arrive in this country until September 4, 1633. He may have been one of Hooker's parishioners at Chelmsford, Essex County, England, and among the large number thereof who came over in 1632, expecting Hooker to follow them. Undoubtedly he was among the first who settled at Cambridge in that year.

Hinman's Puritan Settlers (1846) p. 167.

While there is reason to suppose him to have been a kinsman of Rowland Stebbins, who came to this country in 1634, there is nothing to prove it nor to indicate what the relationship might have been.

The first record of EDWARD STEBBINS is found in an agreement about "paling in the neck land"—dated March 29, 1632—with the first lists of names ever made of the inhabitants of "New Towne," now Cambridge, the fifteenth name in the list being "EDWARD STEBINGE." The shares of land to each person is designated in rods and ranges from two to seventy rods for each person, "STEBINGES'" proportion in the lands being given as twelve rods.

Paige's Cambridge Mass. pp. 10 & 11.

In 1634 John Endicott of Salem, Massachusetts, was chosen one of the board of military commissioners for the colony. The banner used by the train band at Salem had the cross of Saint George worked upon its folds. In Endicott's impetuous resolution to put down every remnant of what he deemed to be popish or heathenish superstition, he cut the cross from this banner. The Magistrates, fearing the result of what might be considered an insult to the English Government, publicly censured Endicott, who was brought before the Court at Boston in 1635—one year after the cross was cut out,—and after due investigation was adjudged to be guilty of a great offence and prohibited "from bearing any public office for one year"; "EDWARD STEBBONS" was a member of the committee which had been appointed at the "Gen'rall Court holden at Newe Towne, May 6th, 1635," to "consider of the act of Mr. Endicott in defacing the colors, & to reporte to the Courte howe farr they judge it sensureable."

Colonial Records of Mass. I p. 145.

Register Book of Lands & Houses of Cambridge Mass. (1896) p. 21.

The first record of his land is dated October 5th, 1635, and consisted of seven pieces, the first two of which were recorded as follows:

"EDWARD STEBINGE In the Towne, one house and Garden with backside aboute halfe aroode Tymothy Stanly south west, Watter street south east Braintree street north east Symon Bradstreet northwest."

"Moore In Cowyard Rowe aboute one Acker Richard Goodman northwest Cowyard lane south west Daniel Patrike south east the Comon Pales north east."

The other five pieces contained respectively three, seven, one, three, and nine acres each.

p. 661.

His residence was on the westerly corner of Harvard and Dunster streets.

p. 38.

Under date "The 2d of the 3d month 1636," is a deed from "EDWARD STEBINGE" to Nicholas Danforth, of "all the right title and Intrest wch he hath in all those percels of land ffollowing," which included his dwelling house and five other pieces of land. Another piece is included, with the statement "that these p'sells of land purchased by Nicholas Danfor of EDW. STEBBINE was bought for the use of Edward Collins." Then follows a deed of two more pieces of land to the said Danforth, consisting of four and five
p. 52. acres each. On September 21, 1639, he sold two pieces of land to Thomas Marriot, the first containing "3 Roods more or less," the second containing one acre.

Trumbull's Hartford, Conn. p. 261.

As early as 1636 he removed to Connecticut. He was one of the founders of Hartford, of which place he became a prominent and greatly respected citizen. In the Historical Catalogue of the First Church of Hartford, he is mentioned as one of the Deacons, and he served as such for many years; but when he was appointed, or when he joined the church does not appear. There is no record of the original members of the church, excepting as all the original proprietors of Hartford are supposed to have also been members of the church. He was chosen constable of Hartford in 1638.

Mass. Historical Soc'y's Collections 2nd Series, VIII p. 153.

Major John Mason, in his History of the Pequot War, says "The year Ensueing [1638] the Colony being in extream Want of Provision, many giving twelve Shillings for one Bushel of Indian Corn; the Court of Connecticut imploying Captain Mason, Mr. William Wadsworth and DEACON STEBBINS to try what Providence would afford, for their Relief in this great Straight; Who no'withstanding some discouragement they met with from some English, went to a place called Pocumtuck; where they procured so much corn at reasonable Rates, that the Indians brought down to Hartford and Windsor, Fifty Canoes Laden with Corn at one time. Never was the like known to this Day: So although the lord was pleased to shew his People hard Things; yet did he execute Judgment for the Oppressed and gave Food to the Hungry. O let us meditate on the Great Works of God: Ascribing all Blessing and Praise to his Great Name, for all his Great Goodness and Salvation: Amen, Amen."

Colonial Records of Ct. p. 18.

On April 5, 1638, at a "Gen'rall Cort at Harteford," it was "ordered that these men followinge shall receive the Corne aforesaide for the plantac'ons according to their proporcons agreed on, and shall keepe one exact account of what every man hath att the rates aforesaid; the men appointed for this service are EDWARDE STIBBEN and Thomas Scott for Harteford" * * *

EDWARD STEBBINS' proportion in the first division of land, dated January 3, 1639, was "24 Ackers." His home lot in 1639 extended from the Meeting House Square to the street, now known as Front Street. This lot is recorded on page 106 of Hartford land records book of "Distributions," under date of February, 1639, as follows—"One parcell on which his dwelling house now standeth with out house, yards and gardens therein being, Containing by estimation two acres, more or less, abuttinge upon the highway leading to the little river into the North meadow on the East, and upon the highway leading to the meeting house on the south, and the meeting house land on the west, and Timothy Standley's land on the north."

Hartford Co., Memorial I p. 261.

He was a large land owner; and his name is connected with more than fifty different parcels of land in the said book of distributions. He was not only a very worthy and respected man, but he was in the strict sense of the word a public man and a servant of the community. He was deputy to the General Court, in 1639, 1640, 1641, 1648, 1649, 1650, 1651, 1652, 1653, 1654, 1655, and 1666. He served as juror in 1639, 1642, 1643, 1645, 1647, 1651, 1655, 1658, and 1662.

Conn. Historical Soc'y Collections VI p. 250

At a town meeting in September, 1639, it was "ordered that EDWARD STEBNE & brother Rescu shall vew the pale & take the forfits & demand the trespases of any man against the former orders Concerning fences gats or hogs," etc.

p. 5.

His name appears in a list of such as have right in the undivided lands, 1639-40. p. 17.

He was appointed on February 18, 1640, as one of the committee to make the "men that be behind in yr laste towne Rate * * * to work out a sertyne Soom of mony in pipe staves." p. 43.

"April the Xth 1640. Forasmuch as many stubborne & refractory Persons are often taken w'thin these libertyes, and no meet place yet pr'pared for the detayneing & keepeing of such to their due & deserved punishment, It is therefore Ordered that there shall be a house of Correction built, of 24 foote long & 16 or 18 foote broad, w'th a Celler, ether of wood or stonne, according as Mr. Talcotte, ED: STEBING, Tho: Ford and James Boosy shall thinke meete, who are chosen by the Courte to lette out the worke, appoynt out the place & to order and directe whatsoever occations and businesses that may fall out for the compleate finishing the said house, wch is to be done by the next Courte, in September."

Colonial Records of Conn. V. p. 47.

On May 6, 1641, it was recorded that "The acwntes of the owld townse being tacken it then Resteth due to the towne ffrom good man STEBIN. 1. 16. 10."

Conn. Historical Soc'y Collections VI p. 57.

The nuncupative will of Thomas Scott of Hartford, which was recorded November, 1643, is mentioned as "yt was spoken by him to EDWARD STEBBING" Tymothy Standley who were sent for by him for that end"; and MR. STEBBINS was appointed one of the overseers.

Colonial Records of Conn. I p. 453.

At a meeting of the General Court, October 25, 1644, "The pr'positions conserneing the mayntenaunce of scollers at Cambridge, made by the said Comissio'rs is confirmed, and It is Ordered that 2 men shalbe appoynted in every Towne w'thin this Jurisdiction, who shall demaund what every family will give, and the same to be gathered and brought into some roome, in

For Hartford, Nathaniell Waird and ED: STEBBING."

"The 18th of november 1644," at a town meeting it was ordered that EDWARD STEBBINS and three others "shall have full power to viw the land from that fenc alredy dune up to podunk."

Colonial Records of Ct. I p. 121

On the 5th of February, 1644, he was appointed by the court to inspect the commerce on the Connecticut River at Hartford; and on the same day "EDWARD STEBBING at Hartford, is appointed to collect tariff on grain which is exported."

p. 135.

"Dece'ber the first 1645, ED. STEBBING of Hartford is appoynted to receive notice of the kylling of hogge or swyne," for Hartford.

Conn. Historical Soc'y Collections I p. 140.

On April 9, 1646, Samuel Martin and William Andrews gave bond to "answer the complaints of EDWARD STEBBING for lading 97 bush of Corne aboarde a vessell at Hartford wch dep'rted the harbor without entering the said corne according to order."

Colonial Records of Ct. VI p. 86. p. 90. p. 95.

He served as a selectman of Hartford, in 1647-8, and on March 9, 1648, rendered his account as selectman. On March 13 of the same year there was "payd out of the rate to William wadsworth & EDWARD STEBING, 00. 08. 06." He was one of the persons appointed February 5, 1650, "to make the ratte."

I p. 259.

At a "Generall Courte of Electyon, the 18th day of May, 1654, EDWAR STEBBING & Tho: Coleman are appointed to draw up some rules for sealing leather," etc. MR. STEBBINS also acted as sealer of leather in 1659.

Conn. Historical Soc'y Collections VI p. 109 p. 107. p. 109.

On February 15, 1654-5, EDWARD STEBBINS was appointed on a committee for "Byinge or Bilding a Hoose for a schole Hous." December 18, 1655, "GOOD STEBING" was chosen one of those who were to take account of the money which Mr. Goodwin received of the town for building "a scoole Hous"; and on January 23, 1655-6, he was one of a committee to "end the Biusenes Between mr. Goodwin and the Town about a Schole Hous."

p. 110.

It is recorded on February 15, 1655, that he was one of the "men that wanted Leaders" [ladders].

Colonial Records of Ct. I p. 298 p. 321.

The General Court, on May 21, 1657, approved the place for a farm for Mr. Haines at Pocumtuck, which "EDWARD STEBBIN & John White have loocked out for him."

At a session of the General Court at Hartford, August 18, 1658, "Mr. John Allyn, EDWARD STEBBING, Nath: Ward, John Bernard, are appoynted to take in the account of the charge respecting al ye Elders attending the last Council, and the man yt was maimed, and to distribute it by way of rate upon both parties, viz: the church at Hartf: and ye withdrawers."

Conn. Historical Soc'y Collections VI p. 123. p. 334. p. 343.

He was elected "chimney veiuer for North side," February 11, 1658. On March 9, 1658-9, he was one of five men appointed "to levy the rate for the charge of the last Council according to former order and to make provision for the entertaynement of this Councill."

On November 9, 1659, "Mr. Willis, Talcot, Stone, and EDWARD STEBBING are desired by the Court to goe downe to Middle Towne to inquire ye nature of ye troublesom differ'nc fallen out there, and to endeavor a composition thereof."

He seems always to have been much interested in educational matters. November 20, 1660, he was appointed on a committee "to consider what way may be best for ye caring and end of a free schole."

p. 132.

March 14, 1660-1, the Court "haveing heard the case respecting Jeremie and John Adams and EDWARD STEBBING, respecting the sale of ye Homelot of Thomas Greenhill, at Hartford, doe sentence and conclude, that ye said sale of yt lot by EDWARD STEBBING to Mr. Goodwin is a legal sale: the sale being acknowledged by EDWARD STEBBIN in open Court."

Colonial Records of Ct. I p. 362.

He was a man in whom the people ever placed great confidence; and he was frequently asked to settle the estates, and care for the widows and children of his neighbors. While he appears to have been somewhat aggressive, most of his legal controversies were for the benefit of others rather than himself. In 1662 he was appointed administrator of the personal estate of Mrs. Dorothy Chester, and was to pay the debts, the remainder to be at his disposal.

Trumbull's Hist. of Hartford Co. Ct. p.234. Hinman's Puritan Settlers p. 162.

On the decease of Governor Hopkins, MR. STEBBINS was appointed one of the trustees to dispose of his estate.

"At a session of the Generall Assembly at Hartford, [October] the 8th, 1663," it was recorded that, "This Court doth approve of DEACON STEBBING and Lut Tho: Bull paying what doth [appear] to be due from Mr. Hopkins estate to Mr. Bournes and Mr. Dallye with what [ ]ency may bee."

It is recorded January 18, 1663-4, that "DEACON EDWARD STEBBING and Lu't Thomas Bull doe engage themselves to pay unto the comittee of the towne of Hartford the sume of fower hundred pounds out of Mr. Hopkins estate in currant pay, this spring, to be improved by the sayd comittee in the towne of Hartford, for promoteing of learning according to the will of o'r honoured freind Mr. Hopkins." December 3, 1664, "MR. EDW. STEBBING" was appointed a trustee for the "Worshipfull Mr. Edw. Hopkins fund of four hundred pounds," and other funds "to bee employed in this Towne for the promotaing of Learning."

Colonial Records of Ct. XV p. 543.

Conn. Historical Soc'y Collections VI p. 144.

He continued as deacon of the church until his death. No dignity, except that of the minister, equaled the office of elder or deacon in colonial times. DEACON STEBBINS is frequently mentioned as a man of note, and of more than ordinary worldly possessions. His cattle mark was "a slitt downe the top of both eares." In addition to the ones already noted, he held numerous offices, and administered various estates, etc. His name was placed on the monument erected by the Ancient Burying Ground Association of Hartford, in memory of the First Settlers.

Hinman's Puritan Settlers p. 162.

Comparatively little is known of his wife. Her name appears first in the list of sisters in full communion with the Second Church of Hartford, in 1670. There is a tradition that she was a woman of such dignity and godliness and that, as a tribute to her worth, her name was given the place of honor on the church roll, preceding even that of the wife of the minister. Her will, dated November 12, 1673, is given below.

Talcott's N. Y. & N. E. Families p. 569.

The exact date of death of DEACON EDWARD STEBBINS is not known; he probably died in 1668, as his son-in-law, Thomas Cadwell, mentions in his will that his wife Elizabeth "was the only child living of" EDWARD STEB-

BINS "when he deceased in 1668." The inventory of the estate of DEACON EDWARD STEBBINS was taken August 10, 1668.

Trumbull's Hartford Co. Ct. I p. 252.

EDITHA STEBBINS, sister of Deacon Edward Stebbins, was mentioned in his will as his "Deare Sister Holyoke." John Maynard's will was dated January 23, 1657-8; inventory, February 24, same year, £450.4. He names wife Editha, her eldest son Thomas Day, youngest son John Day, daughters Sarah and Mary Day. John Day received the property of Maynard, and it is probably in remembrance of him that he named a son Maynard Day. He gives his dwelling-house and lands in Hartford to his wife, and after her decease to go to her youngest son, John Day.

JOHN STEBBINS OF WATERTOWN.

1. JOHN STEBBINS, of Watertown, born 1601-5; died about 1685, probably at New London, Connecticut; married MARGARET (or MARY) ———; died January 1, 1678-9, probably at New London, Connecticut. Resided at Watertown, Massachusetts, and New London, Connecticut.

4. III. Daniel.

The General Court on March 1, 1634, order that records of every man's houses and land should be taken, entered in the town book, and a transcript thereof handed into court, and that such record should be a sufficient assurance of title. In the first inventory taken, JOHN STEBBINS owned "An Homestall of Seven Acres more or les bounded the South with the highway the North with Justinian Holden the East with Christofer Grant & the West with Richard Holden." In 1639 he still possessed the same land.

Watertown, Mass. Rec. p. 15.
p. 66.
p. 145.

JOHN STEBBINS appears to have been among the first settlers of New London, Connecticut. He is mentioned as one of the advance party who were engaged in laying out and fencing lots as early as 1645.

Hist. of Montville, Conn. p. 419.

JOHN STEBBINS and Isaac Willey mowed the marshes and meadows at Upper Mamacock, in the vicinity of New London, in the summer of 1645.

Hist. of New London, Ct. p. 44.

It is recorded in 1647, that "JOHN STUBENS and Robert Hempsteed are chosen to view the fences for this year."

p. 57.

On February 22, 1648-9, "The inhabitants of Pequit plantation have chosen by a joynt consent Mr. John Winthrop, Robert Hempsteed, Carie Latham, JOHN STUBENS, and Thomas Miner for this yeare following to act in all towne affaires as well in the disposing of lands as in other prudentiall occasions for the towne."

Hist. of Montville p. 419.

In 1649, "Waterhouse and STUBENS were chosen overseers of the wears for the year."

Hist. of New London p. 59

"At a town meeting at Namearke [later called Pequoet, and afterwards New London], the 25th of February, 1649 [1649-50], JOHN STUBBINES is chosen Constable for the towne Nemearke." He again occupied this office in 1660.

p. 65.

He and three others were chosen "townsmen," February 25, 1650-1. The name of "JNO. STUBBIN" appears in a list of "all yt wrought at the Mill Dam," July, 1751.

p. 72.

9. SUMNER STEBBINS { James Stebbins / Lydia Tyler   Abraham Stebbins / Lydia Damon } son of James Stebbins and Lydia Tyler, was born May 12, 1809, at Cazenovia (or near Petersboro), Madison County, New York; died July 12, 1884, at Kennett Square, Chester County, Pennsylvania; married September 3, 1842, to MARY ANN BENNETT PEIRCE, born December 10, 1811, at Kennett Square, Chester County, Pennsylvania; died October 7, 1897, who was a daughter of Joshua Peirce and Susanna Bennett. Profession, physician. Politics, Republican. Resided at Kennett Square, Pennsylvania; Mt. Pleasant, Iowa; Marshall, Michigan; Unionville, Pennsylvania; East Marlborough Township, Pennsylvania.

CHILDREN:

26. I. Joshua Peirce, born May 30, 1843; married Elizabeth Richards.
27. II. Channing, born December 26, 1844; married Sarah Farnsworth Smith.
28. III. Sidney Peirce, born November 24, 1846; married Adolphus Darwin Woodward.+

30. V. George Peirce, born June 10, 1850; married Mary Knight.+
31. VI. Mary Agnew, born May 16, 1852; died November 11, 1853.

SUMNER STEBBINS learned the trade of tailor. He settled near Kennett Square, Chester County, Pennsylvania, and afterwards taught school. He studied medicine at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, and practiced in Lionville, Chester County, Pennsylvania, in 1834, and in Kennett Square, from about 1840 to 1856.

He retired and moved to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where he was soon made president of the school board. He read law and was admitted to the bar, in Mt. Pleasant, but did not engage in its practice.

In 1859, he moved to Marshall, Michigan, where he practiced medicine and edited the "Marshall Statesman." Returning to Pennsylvania in 1860, he engaged in the practice of medicine in Unionville, Chester County, until 1881. He was one of Chester County's most distinguished and beloved residents.

As a debater, he was particularly strong and vigorous—an incisive speaker, and few men could stand up before his powerful invective, and his burning sarcasm. He fought slavery and intemperance with all the force of an impetuous, energetic nature, both with his voice and pen. An essay written by DR. STEBBINS, about 1867, on "The Fruits of the Liquor Traffic and the Results of Prohibition," won the first prize offered by the National Temperance Society. During these years of discussion, however, the physician did not give place to the politician.

The following is copied from "Proceedings of the Yearly Meeting of Progressive Friends" held at Longwood, Chester County, Pennsylvania, January, 1885.

"SUMNER STEBBINS."

"Among those who were a year ago with us and of us and now rest from the labors of this life is DR. SUMNER STEBBINS. During a long, active, earnest career he gave freely of his talents, strength and energy to the cause of the poor and weak. His was a commanding and courageous spirit which in moral warfare cheered and inspired his followers and won the respect and admiration of his enemies. From youth to age his armor was always on and he wielded the sword of the spirit against our two great national iniquities, chattel slavery and the rum oligarchy. Though earnest and almost violent in conflict his spirit was always generous and wore no taint of malice. Judged by ecclesiasticism he was not a religious man, but if pure and undefiled religion is to visit the widow and the fatherless he was such a man. He subscribed to no theological creed, but every fibre of his soul was alive with tender human sympathies and his strong arm was extended to those who were ready to perish. His life has been a blessing to the earth and his memory should inspire us to press forward in every good work."

11. EMILY STEBBINS { James Stebbins / Lydia Tyler — Abraham Stebbins / Lydia Damon }

34. III. Josephine Emily Smith, born March 10, 1850, at Newark, New Jersey; married Judson Embury Elden.

12. FRANCES STEBBINS { James Stebbins / Lydia Tyler — Abraham Stebbins / Lydia Damon } daughter of James Stebbins and Lydia Tyler, was born January (or February) 12, 1812, at Cazenovia, Madison County, New York; died December 14 (or 17), 1888, at Outville, Licking County, Ohio; married, 1832, to JOHN SPRING, born about 1810, at Cazenovia, Madison County, New York; died September 5, 1847, at Newark, Licking County, Ohio. She was married several times, but names of her other husbands are not known.

CHILDREN:

35. I. Gage Sherwin Spring, born May 30, 1834; married December 30, 1862, Marietta Metcalf. He died August 27, 1901. They had one son.
36. II. Louisa Marie Spring; married William H. Smith.+
37. III. Hattie Spring.

38. IV. Hattie Spring (2nd), born October 2, 1842; married Jonathan J. Smith.+

39. V. Henry Spring, born August 1, 1846; married Amanda Stigers.+

40. VI. John Spring, born May 29, 1847; married Mary Wright.

GAGE SHERWIN SPRING was born at Morrisville, New York, and removed with his parents to Newark, Licking County, Ohio, when only four years of age. He grew to manhood on a farm near the latter place, attending the district schools near his home.

At the age of nineteen he commenced teaching in the district schools of his county, in the meantime devoting his evening hours to the study of the higher branches in order to prepare himself for college. He spent one year in the study of higher mathematics at Dennison University, Granville, Ohio. Soon after leaving college he was elected surveyor of Licking County, which office he held four years.

The goal of his ambition at this time was eminence in the profession of law, and every hour which could be spared from his duties as teacher and surveyor, was devoted to the study of those works which would make him proficient in that profession. His perseverance was rewarded and he was admitted to the bar in 1865, and accepted a partnership with Attorney White of Newark.

In March, 1867, he purchased a tract of land near Harrisonville, Cass County, Missouri, and removed there. He occupied many positions of trust in the county; he was road commissioner in 1869, and assistant surveyor, holding these positions for eighteen months. In 1872 he was elected superintendent of schools, and continued to discharge the duties of that office for six years. In 1878-9 he represented Cass County in the State Legislature, filling the office with credit to himself and satisfaction to his constituents.

In 1879 he was nominated by the Greenback party of his congressional district for member of congress, and also became the editor of The Vindicator, the Greenback organ of the county, which he conducted with merit and energy. While canvassing the district during the campaign, he was thrown violently from his carriage and received injuries which compelled him to give up the race and withdraw from public life. Hoping that the ocean breezes would prove beneficial to his health, he removed in 1888 to Oregon, settling on a farm in the vicinity of McMinnville. In 1892 he removed to Tulare County, California, but in 1898 returned to McMinnville, near which place he died.

10. III. Jessica Maud, born January 30, 1874; abstract clerk United States Mint, Denver, Colorado.

U. S. Biographical Dictionary 1878-9.

When COLUMBUS STEBBINS was two years old, the family moved to Hamilton, Butler County, Ohio, twenty-five miles from Cincinnati, and there he was reared on a farm. At nineteen years of age he removed to Columbus, Bartholomew County, Indiana, and there spent two years in farming.

MR. STEBBINS belonged to the class of self-made men. Possessed of a very ordinary common school education, at the age of twenty-one he purchased the Spirit of the West, and learned the printer's trade, editing his own paper from the start. In a few years he changed the name of the paper to The Independent. In the spring of 1857 he removed his establishment to Hastings, Minnesota, dating the first issue there on the 25th of July, 1857. After managing it alone for ten or eleven years, a partner was associated with him in its publication, and the name was changed to The Gazette. This partnership continued until March 4, 1878, when MR. STEBBINS disposed of his interest in the paper. It has been and is a journal of much influence.

MR. STEBBINS was a Republican of whig antecedents, and attended the State convention in Indiana which organized the Republican party—one of the first state conventions of the kind in the country. He was chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Minnesota, in 1868, and was ever an efficient worker for the party. He was chairman of the Republican Central Committee in the first judicial district.

Just after the civil war he spent two winters at Washington, D. C., as clerk in the "House" department.

He lived the life of a pioneer printer. When he started in the business in Indiana, that part of the state was only partially settled; and when he went to Minnesota, it was a territory. The year after he located at Hastings, the state constitution was adopted, and the sovereignty of the state was recognized by congress. For twenty years, with voice and pen, he strove manfully to build up the young commonwealth, which will not be likely to forget his services.

2. Rebecca Herrick, an adopted daughter; married Gamaliel Baldwin.+

Hist. New Milford p. 770.

BENONI STEBBINS removed from Northampton, Massachusetts, in the spring or summer of 1713, to New Milford, Connecticut, for in October of that year he purchased a Right of land there and is said in the deed, to be of New Milford. He became an influential man in that town, and held a number of minor offices, among which were the following, as shown by the records of New Milford. "December, 1713. At a town meeting BENONI STEBBINGS and Stephen Noble were chosen hawards, or field-drivers." 7. 37.

p. 69. "December 16, 1723, BENONI STEBBINS & others, gave James Hine one acre of land apiece in consideration that he settle at New Milford and become their smith for a term of four years."

p. 58. In 1724 he was given "nine pound fifteen shillings" to provide the minister, Mr. Boardman, with sufficient wood for the year.

p. 91. BENONI STEBBINS' was one of the twenty-three families who signed the petition to establish a meeting house at New Milford, Connecticut.

p. 51. "December 28, 1740. James Lake not attending the worship of God for some time before, he was named by Benjamin Bunnell and BENONI STEBBINS to appear at the public worship."

p. 101. BENONI STEBBINS was one of the sixty-four who purchased the New Milford North purchase, 1741.

p. 64. The lot on which he built his dwelling was number eight in the Town Plot. He became a prosperous farmer, buying all the land adjoining his, his farm and home being noted unto this day.

p. 867. The inscriptions on the gravestones of MR. STEBBINS and his wife, in the New Milford Cemetery, read as follows:

In memory of
Mrs. Mary, the wife of Mr. BENONI
STEBBINS, deceased February ye 17, A. D.
1771, in the 78th year of her Age.

Here lies buried ye body of MR. BENONI STEBBINS who died Nov.
ye 14, 1758 in the 70th year of his age.
Behold, all you that pass by,
As you are now so once was I,
As I am now so you must be,
Prepare for death, & follow me.

In his will he gave a legacy in land to the first society of New Milford, p. 172. which was sold to Mrs. Stebbins and Zachariah Sanford in 1759, for two hundred pounds, money, and a school-house was erected in harmony with the following:

"Voted, that there may be a school-house built between Doct. John Carrington's dwelling-house (which was a little way west from Mr. William Bostwick's present dwelling) and Daniel Burrit's shop, to keep a school in for improvement of MR. BENONI STEBBINS' donation, given to this society for that purpose." p. 173. The school house was known by the name of "Stebbins School-house," and the school kept was a kind of free academy for some years, and, so far as we can learn, was one of the first free schools in Connecticut.

7. IV. John; unmarried.

8. V. Mary; unmarried.

JOHN ALDEN STEBBINS emigrated to Sackett's Harbor about 1820. Solomon A. and Daniel R. went to Buffalo about 1833 (or 1835), then to Maumee and Toledo, Ohio, about 1836. Daniel R. died there in July, 1873, and left one child, Sarah, who married James Paige. Sarah (Stebbins) Paige died September, 1896, at Toledo, Ohio.

JOHN ALDEN STEBBINS was in the war of 1812, from Ft. Edward, Vermont. In 1813 he removed to Sackett's Harbor, New York.

His father, DANIEL STEBBINS, served in the Revolutionary war, and was with Marion in the Carolinas.

His son, DANIEL R. STEBBINS, went to Buffalo, New York, in 1833, with his brother, Solomon, and to Maumee City, Ohio, in 1836. Soon afterwards he removed to Toledo, Ohio, at which place he died. In 1848 he built and partly owned the fine steamer G. P. Griffith, which was destroyed by fire, June 17, 1850. Three hundred lives were lost.

The following is copied from his obituary:

"MR. STEBBINS gallantly stood by his post at the engines until the last hopes of saving the boat was abandoned, and then after a severe scorching yielded to the rapidly advancing flames. He secured a boat and conveyed a lot of passengers to the shore, instilling courage and fortitude into them by his own demeanor. He returned again and again, carrying away large loads each time. His overexertions at this terrible period provoked an attack of paralysis, which at last caused his death." He left no family but a wife and daughter, who have since died.

3. DANIEL STEBBINS, of North Chester, Massachusetts, son of Daniel Stebbins and Ruth Goodwell, was born January 19, 1786 (T. JOHN GOODWELL STEBBINS engaged in farming, and also took large contracts for cord wood and hemlock bark. At different times he ran a saw mill and burned charcoal. Early in the spring of 1853 he removed from his home in Massachusetts, to Covington, Pennsylvania, where he obtained employment in the Tannery of Isaac Berry. The business did not prove agreeable to him, so he remained there only three years. He had obtained a process of tanning deer skin white, which he made into gloves and mittens for gentlemen's wear. When the Civil war broke out, he enlisted in Company H, 50th New York Volunteer Engineer Corps. This company was sent ahead to construct pontoon bridges. Through the exposure incident to this work he contracted pneumonia and was for some time confined in the hospital. After a brief furlough he returned to his company, but soon secured his discharge. He never fully regained his health. After his death MRS. STEBBINS went west to live with her sons.

64. II. Harrison T., born September 15, 1878.
65. III. Ella H., born January 5, 1885.

EDWARD ALBERT STEBBINS removed to Toledo, Ohio, with his parents, when he was six years old, and spent the remainder of his life in that city. One of his early pastimes was catching crickets, and we should judge that he was very industrious in this respect, from the fact that his older sister states that one summer he used up twenty-seven straw hats in his endeavors to catch the crickets.

At the age of fifteen he enlisted in the 25th Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, his age not being questioned, as at that time he measured six feet three inches. He served two years and five months.

Shortly after returning from the war, he went on the great lakes with his brothers, and later learned engineering on the lakes. After his marriage he left the lakes and worked at stationary engineering.

He early evinced an interest in Christianity, and when twenty-three years of age, joined the Olive Street Baptist Church of Toledo, continuing an active and influential member until his death, at which time he was Chairman of the Board of Trustees. He lived a quiet life—always at home with his family. He was buried in Woodlawn Cemetery, the site of his boyhood home.

Hist. of Cornwall, Vermont (1862) pp. 46-49.

EBENEZER STEBBINS was one of the first settlers of Cornwall, Vermont. In 1775 he settled upon the farm which was occupied in 1862, by his daughter, Mrs. Roxalana Peet, and his grandson, Loring S. Peet. MR. STEBBINS had purchased an entire share of an original proprietor, and located it in a body. His first house was near that in which he afterward lived and died, and which was in 1862 occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Peet.

The aged Mrs. Peet had a duodecimo Bible, and a looking glass, which her mother covered with some pillows and concealed under some logs, upon receiving the news of the surrender of Ticonderoga to Burgoyne in 1777, when the settlers were compelled to abandon their farms. The Bible and looking glass remained undisturbed until our return after the restoration of peace. The Bible, though somewhat discolored by exposure to the dampness, is legible, and contains the family record. The chief injury sustained by the glass was the loss of some of the ornamental parts of its frame. Both are invaluable as mementoes of sacrifices, which, as a child scarcely advanced beyond the period of infancy, Mrs. Peet shared with her parents. She was old enough when her father returned to Cornwall, to remember distinctly events as they occurred. She related that they arrived in March, while the ground was still covered with a great depth of snow. Her father had procured a team to convey his family from Asa Blodget's, on the creek to his place of abode, and they were obliged, as the swamp was impassable, to travel around the north end of it. This was on the Sabbath, and the first inhabitants they met after leaving the Creek were assembled at the house of Dr. Nathan Foot for religious worship. They remained until the close of the service, and as necessity was laid upon them to reach home that day if possible, they proceeded on their journey. As they passed over the hill west of the house and came in sight of it, the snow drifts were so deep as effectually to prevent further progress with the team. By vigorous use of a shovel the men cleared a path so that Mrs. Stebbins was able to make her way to the cabin, which she found dilapidated, cold and cheerless. The roof had fallen in, and it was filled with snow, and the only apartment where they could find shelter was a little bedroom in one corner. Here they kindled a fire, and having procured some meal from the sled blocaded with snow, the mother prepared a "johnny cake," which was rendered doubly sweet by fasting and fatigue. With such accommodations was passed the first night, after their return to Cornwall. MR. STEBBINS lived to the extreme age of 96 years.

The homestead of MR. STEBBINS [1862], mostly the property of his grandson, Loring S. Peet, who resides upon it, is situated about one-half mile east of school house Number 3.

EBENEZER STEBBINS, of Springfield [probably same as No. 219 or No. 304 Ebenezer], had a daughter, ——— Stebbins, who was married to JONATHAN COOLEY, born June 10, 1764; died February 10, 1798, drowned in Connecticut River, who was a son of George Colton Cooley and Mabel Hancock. No children.

25. III. Leo A. J., born August 1, 1888; unmarried.

ANDREW JACKSON STEBBINS attended the common schools until the war of the Rebellion broke out, when he enlisted in Company B, Twenty-first Michigan Infantry, and went into the service. He studied hard and competed with a class of five, and passing the most satisfactory examination, received a certificate and was placed in charge of the medical supplies at hospitals Nos. 1 and 4, at Nashville, Tennessee, where he served as hospital steward until the close of the war. After his return he worked on a farm for a few years, then engaged in the lumber business, owning and operating the mills on Section 1 of Sparta, known as Stebbins' Mills. He lumbered several years for William T. Powers, then built an elevator at Sparta and bought grain for several years. In 1879 and 1880 he lumbered in Dakota with headquarters at Deadwood. MR. STEBBINS is mainly a self-educated man, but has always taken a great interest in schools. At his mills in Sparta, after two years hard work in that behalf, and several defeats, he succeeded in securing the organization of a school district from territory taken from the towns of Sparta, Algoma, Tyrone and Solon. He also succeeded in having a good school house built and furnished with modern seats and desks; and while he lived there he managed to have at least nine months of school each year, often making personal contributions for the maintenance of good schools, and frequently giving presents to small scholars for faithful attendance and good scholarship. For several years he held the office of Justice of the Peace, and in 1882 was elected Treasurer of Kent County, which office he held two terms of two years each. In 1889 he was elected a member of the common council of the city of Grand Rapids, and was by that body elected President, which position he held for two years. In 1897 and 1898 he was deputy City Treasurer. MR. STEBBINS was a charter member of Kent Chapter No. 106 of Royal Arch Masons; and was the High Priest of the Chapter from its organization until he removed to Grand Rapids in 1882. For many years he has been the possessor of several fine farms but has never lived on them. At present he is engaged in the real estate business and farming.

ELSIE D. STEBBINS has been engaged for several years as a teacher, but at present follows the profession of reporter and typist.

ORSON D. STEBBINS was for several years a bookkeeper, but is now conductor on a Wagner Palace train running from St. Louis, Missouri, to Houston, Texas.

ARCHIBALD FILBY STEBBING in the spring of 1878 was taken to England by his parents, and lived in various suburban towns of London. He was educated principally at the Woodford (Essex) Collegiate School; and in 1891 entered the bank of W. and J. Biggerstaff, where his father was engaged.

In March, 1894, the family returned to America and settled at New Haven, Connecticut, where ARCHIBALD entered the employ of the City Bank of New Haven.

In 1896 he was commissioned lay reader in the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut, and was connected with Christ Church, New Haven; and, as a reader, held various services in the churches in the immediate neighborhood, and held regular Sunday services in the County Home for children. From Easter week until late in the autumn of 1898, he had charge of the services in Christ Church, East Haven.

In 1900 he accepted a stenographic position with a manufacturing concern in New Haven; and the next year removed to Bridgeport, Connecticut, to accept a similar but more advantageous position.

CHILDREN:

2. I. Genevieve, born March 7, 1857; married Norman Astley.+
3. II. Lilly.

JAMES C. STEBBINS was a celebrated land lawyer of San Francisco. HENRIETTE SMITH STEBBINS was a daughter of Moses Smith, professor of Greek and Latin, at Amherst College, and a niece of Gideon Lee, a wealthy leather merchant of New York, who was for many years Mayor of that city, and also served as Congressman. Her mother was Lois Ward, of the family of Artemas Ward, the famous Revolutionary general.

2. GENEVIEVE STEBBINS, daughter of James Cole Stebbins and Henrietta Smith, was born March 7, 1857, at San Francisco, California; married April, 1893, at Boston, Massachusetts, to NORMAN ASTLEY, born April 19, 1853, at Monmouth, England, who was a son of John Astley and Emma Hadden. Profession, journalist. Residence, 318 West 67th Street, New York, New York.

Fate sent the parents of GENEVIEVE STEBBINS ASTLEY to the Pacific coast in the early days of emigration to California, and there she lost her mother when about two years of age. Her father's rash speculations in gold mines having reduced family finances, MISS STEBBINS, at the age of eighteen, went to New York, intending to study for the stage. Her chances for success were flattering, for from her youth she had displayed remarkable dramatic talent and had been accustomed to appearing in public in pantomimes and children's dances. From New York, where she had enjoyed the instruction of the best teachers obtainable, MISS STEBBINS proceeded to Paris, and there continued her studies in voice and action, under the private tuition of M. Regnier, president of the Paris Conservatory, the teacher of Bernhardt, Coquelin, and other world-famed actors. This celebrated instructor declared MISS STEBBINS to be the possessor of great genius, and prophesied that her studies would lead to the highest results. During her residence in Paris, which covered a period of several years, MISS STEBBINS became convinced through independent study and reflection, of the truth of the great principles on which the Delsarte system is founded, and determined to become a teacher of that system. In taking this step she was heartily encouraged by Steele Mackaye, himself a disciple of Delsarte, who had been one of her teachers in New York, and who declared her to be the only one of his pupils whom he could conscientiously recommend and authorize to teach what he taught himself. During the year 1877-8 MISS STEBBINS was a teacher of Delsarte expression in Prof. Monroe's School of Oratory in Boston; and then removed to New York to establish an enviable reputation as a specialist. A few years later, during a visit to Paris, she obtained permission from the widow of Delsarte, to use his unpublished manuscripts, and upon them based a book entitled the "Delsarte System of Expression," the first work on the subject ever published in America. From this time she became the recognized leader of the Delsarte system of Aesthetic culture, and created a complete revolution in the Physical training in America. She next formulated a system of aesthetic gymnastics based upon the primary principles of Delsarte, Regnier and other masters, suited for school or private use. This was introduced into the fashionable schools of New York in 1886, and brought her increased fame as an exponent of the Delsarte system. As the number of her pupils increased and her reputation spread, the demand for a printed manual became urgent, accordingly in 1889, "Society Gymnastics" appeared and met with ready sale. This was followed by "Dynamic Breathing" (1892), which was written in collaboration with a personal friend, a gentleman who during years of travel and research in the Orient had discovered that the religious ceremonies of eastern nations embody the artistic laws that produced the art of Greece, and later found expression in the system of Delsarte. In 1898 she published "The Genevieve Stebbins System of Physical Training, Specially graded for use in Schools and Colleges." In 1893, with the assistance of her husband, she established the New York School of Expression. This institution was a brilliant success from the start, and its graduates occupy important positions in various academies and colleges throughout the country. In consequence of her national reputation, MRS. ASTLEY was appointed a member of the Advisory Council (Women's Auxiliary) for the World's Columbian Exposition.

JAMES STEBBINS was a fisherman, whaler and merchantman, following the sea the greater part of his life. He filled positions from cabin boy to captain. When returning from a successful whaling voyage in the northern ocean, the Alabamco, Captain Semmes, captured and burned his vessel. A number of years afterward the Government granted him a portion of the General Award.

JAMES M. STEBBINS was a machinist and engineer. He was second engineer of the war vessel "Powhatten," which helped bombard Fort Sumpter. Before the close of the war he was discharged from the navy on account of disability.

WALLACE STEBBINS followed the sea for some years. About thirty-five years ago he was attached to the Chinese Customs. During his term of service he has visited this country twice. He has been decorated by the Chinese authorities for valuable service. He is thoroughly conversant with the Chinese language, and still remains in the same office.

JULIUS C. STEBBINS in early life was a clerk in New London, Connecticut. When the oil regions of Pennsylvania first attracted attention he kept a restaurant in Shaffer Farm, Pennsylvania. He finally drifted to Canada, and has kept a tavern in Toronto for a number of years.

JANE C. STEBBINS of New York [sister-in-law of Captain Walter Bicker]; died January 16, 1892; married about 1824-7 to JULIUS J. BRONSON KINGSBURY, born October 18, 1797, at Waterbury, Connecticut; died June 26 (or 23), 1856, at Washington, D. C., who was a son of Judge John Kingsbury and Marcia Bronson.

History of Waterbury Ct. III. p. 1192.

CHILDREN:

I. Mary Kingsbury; married Captain Simon B. Buckner. She is dead. Captain Buckner was afterwards general in Confederate service and Governor of Kentucky.
II. Julius Kingsbury (eldest son); died in 1850 in California.
III. Henry W. Kingsbury, born December 25, 1837; killed at Antietam.

As there was no school in Waterbury, Connecticut, of a higher grade than a district school JULIUS J. B. KINGSBURY was sent away from home to pursue his studies. In 1819 he obtained an appointment as cadet at the military academy at West Point. He left West Point in regular course in 1823, was attached as lieutenant to the second regiment of infantry and ordered with a detachment of troops to Sault Ste. Marie at the outlet of Lake Superior, to assist in building Ft. Brady. There he remained three or four years under Major (afterwards Colonel) Cutler. Next he was ordered, with a detachment, by sea, to New Orleans at Nacogdoches. Afterwards he was stationed for a time at Mackinaw and Ft. Gratiot. During the Black Hawk war in 1832, he was in Chicago, attached to the commissary department, and saw much harder and dangerous service. While there—Chicago being then in its infancy—he purchased for seven hundred dollars about thirty-six acres of land on the North branch of the Chicago river, near its junction with the south branch, and about two acres across on the south side of the main river, the latter tract in the heart of the present city, and the former but a little way distant. The land is still in the possession of the family, and is of great value. He was afterward at Ft. Niagara. Later, during the disturbances on our northeastern frontier, he was stationed at Hancock barracks, Bolton, Maine. Thence, after the breaking out of the Seminole war, he was ordered, with his command, to Tampa, Florida. There he remained three years (with the exception of a short interval) and his constitution was so broken by the combined influence of climate, exposure and fatigue, that he never recovered. On his return to the north he was stationed at Sackett's Harbor, and afterward, a second time, at Ft. Brady. He left this post early in 1847, to join General Scott before Vera Cruz. He assisted in the capture of that place and was more or less engaged in all the battles which occurred on the march to the City of Mexico. For his good conduct in one of the engagements near the city he was brevetted. Throughout the campaign he acted as lieutenant colonel of his regiment, though he was at that time only captain.

While in Mexico Captain Kingsbury was attacked by severe brain fever, which seriously threatened his life. When he had recovered sufficient strength, General Scott sent him home on sick leave. In December, 1848, having partially rgained his health, he was ordered with a part of his regiment to California, and remained there nearly two years. While there he was promoted and transferred to the sixth regiment. He returned home in the summer of 1850, but too much out of health to be fit for duty. He spent the next two years in Washington, and with his friends in the east, on sick leave. He then started to join his regiment at St. Louis, but was detained at Detroit by illness and was compelled to spend the winter there (1852-3). While there, owing to some misunderstanding with the War department, not involving his integrity or honor, his name was stricken from the army roll. Conceiving himself to be unfairly treated, he declined to make any explanation, or to hold any communication with the department. Before his death, however, he settled all his accounts with the government and received a balance which was found due him. He was a brave and skillful officer, always equal to the duties imposed on him. He was for nearly thirty years connected with the army. He was active and efficient in the field, and was ever distinguished by honorable conduct. At his own request his remains were buried in the Waterbury cemetery by the side of his father.

13. JEAN R. STEBBINS

William Burrell Stebbins — Captain John Stebbins
Elvira Griswold — Electa Burrell

son of William Burrell Stebbins and Elvira Griswold, was born August 24, 1836, at Marshall, Oneida County, New York; died April 25, 1898, at Little Falls, New York; married July 13, 1864, at Adams, New York, to ADELAIDE COOPER, born April 3, 1836, at Adams, Jefferson County, New York. Occupation, president of the Agricultural Insurance Company. Politics, Republican. Religion, Presbyterian. Resided at Little Falls, New York.

CHILDREN:

57. I. William Cooper, born June 20, 1864; married Grace Sewell.
58. II. Fred Cooper, born October 9, 1867; died November 17, 1873.
59. III. John Cooper, born January 25, 1869; died May 2, 1871.
60. IV. Grace Adelaide, born July 22, 1870; married Charles N. Sherman.+
61. V. John Cooper, born April 1, 1874.

JEAN R. STEBBINS spent his boyhood days in the town of Salisbury, Herkimer County, New York. In 1854 he went to Little Falls and commenced reading law in the office of Hon. George A. Hardin, of that city. He was admitted to the bar in 1860. In 1861 he purchased the Herkimer County Journal, published at Little Falls, and by energy and shrewd management soon placed the paper on a paying basis. A few years later he purchased the Courier and consolidated the two papers under the title of the Little Falls Journal and Courier. MR. STEBBINS possessed equally strong powers as an editor and a business manager, qualities rarely united in one man, and was successful from the start. He was editor of the Journal during the stirring times of the civil war, and it was one of the leading weekly papers in that section of the state. He was a vigorous and forcible writer on all topics, and his opinions expressed through the medium of the Journal carried vast weight, and went a long way toward molding public sentiment. In politics he was an ardent and enthusiastic Republican, and in party councils his opinion was eagerly sought after. He possessed rare qualifications as an organizer, and for many years was one of the recognized party leaders in the county. In 1869 he was appointed by President Grant as Internal Revenue Collector in his district, and was reappointed in 1875. In 1887 MR. STEBBINS was elected President of the Agricultural Insurance Company, of Watertown, of which he had long been a director, to succeed his father-in-law, John C. Cooper. In 1888 he retired from journalism, and went to Watertown to assume the direction of the insurance company, a position in which he found wider scope for the great executive ability that had won his early business successes.

14. IV. Edna, born March 20, 1887; died August 2, 1887.
15. V. Harold C., born March 24, 1896.

CAPTAIN FRED STEBBINS began his boating career at Albany on board the sidewheeler, Uncle Ben, going as cook and deck-hand. Several years after he secured, in succession, employment on the tugs Geo. L. Garlick (the first boat in the towing business at Albany), R. C. Redfield, B. C. Brainard, G. M. Griffen, C. T. Shepard, Theo. Townsend (better known as the A. L. Lawrence), and last of all the R. B. Vassar. On most of these boats, he served in the capacity of either captain or engineer, and was also part owner. His first experience was with some of the best steamboat officers along the Hudson, among whom were Captains Wm. Ostram, William Winnie, John and Nicholas Hitchcock, "Chet" Burbanks, Philip Stauts, George Demming and Charles Brooks.

At the time the first bridge was built at Albany, CAPTAIN FRED STEBBINS sold out his interest in tug boats, and went to New York, where he has been ever since. He was initiated in the harbor business while on the tug Wm. Cook, and afterward was pilot and engineer, respectively, on passenger and towing boats; and was also in the John H. Starin Harbor Transportation Line. During the civil war he was engineer on a transport. His last experience as engineer was on the old propeller, Putnam, running down East, on which he remained about fifteen years.

CAPTAIN STEBBINS commanded his own tug, the C. A. Dickey, for nine years, towing on the eastern coast and around New York harbor, for contractors, such as James D. Leary, Henry DuBois & Sons, Brainard Brothers, and J. H. Fenner, and also doing work for the United States government. He has first-class pilot and engineer licenses. He is at present commander and proprietor of the tug, Robert M. Day.

JOHN W. STEBBINS attended Cazenovia [New York] seminary, and was graduated from Union College in 1846. In 1850 he removed to Rochester, New York, and shortly afterward was admitted to the bar. He was a member of the state legislature in 1856. During President Lincoln's last term of office, MR. STEBBINS was postmaster of Rochester. He was initiated as an Odd Fellow in Genesee lodge in 1859, and has filled all the positions in the order. He devoted himself enthusiastically to the welfare of the order, and in 1894 was elected Grand Sire of the world, in that order.

MRS. STEBBINS was a woman of culture and refinement. She was prominently identified with all the charitable work of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church of Rochester, of which she was a member. As a charter member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, she was instrumental in doing much to assuage suffering, and was secretary of the society for many years. She was also interested in the founding of the Hahnemann Memorial Hospital of Rochester, and was for several years secretary of the board of lady managers of that institution.

On January 26, 1651, at a town meeting, "MARTIN STEBINS upon his Petition had Libertie to Continue his keeping of an Ordinary till the seaventh moneth next if the Court please." At a town meeting, October 5, 1652, he was "admitted to keep a Vicktualing house and to draw beere for one year." October 26, 1652, "MARTIN STEBBINS, preferinge a petition for libertie to keepe a howse of entertaynment, hath his request graunted, if the select men of Boston give way thereunto." On the same date, "In ans'r to the petition of MARTIN STEBBINS, desiring license to keepe a victualing howse in Boston for one yeere, the selectmen of Boston being willing thereto, the Court graunts his request."

III p. 323.

August 30, 1653, MARTIN STEBBINS "beinge fined five pounds for brewinge without approbation, petitioned for the remittinge of his said fine, which petition was not graunted."

MARTIN STEBBINS is mentioned as creditor of various estates in Suffolk County.

N. E. H. & G. Reg. VII & VIII.

The following seems to be a unique form of chattel mortgage:

"15, 10. 1653 [December 15, 1653]. MARTYN STEBENS, of Boston, brewer, sold unto Wm. Bartholmew, of Ipswich, & to his Assigns, the Copper now being in his brew house, together w'th all the brewing vessels in ye said brewhouse. When only sixteen years of age, WILLIAM WALLACE STEBBINS enlisted to fight the Canadians across the St. Lawrence river. He has many times repeated the story of his narrow escape from hanging, when he, with others, was taken prisoner and condemned to die. His sister, Mrs. Avery Skinner, wife of the Judge of Oswego County, interceded in his behalf, and obtained his pardon the day before the one which had been set for his execution. On that day, his fellow prisoner the one who shared his cot—was taken out and hanged. While he was in prison, about 1836-1837, his father and mother both died, being stricken within two weeks of each other.

27. WILSON JAMES STEBBINS

Julius Augustus Stebbins — Charles Devas Stebbins — Rufus Stebbins
Mary Augusta Collard — Phila Risley — ——— ———

son of Julius Augustus Stebbins and Mary Augusta Collard, was born July 4, 1860, at Parish, Oswego County, New York; married September 12, 1894, at North Syracuse, Onondaga County, New York, to IDA MAY REESE, born June 18, 1864, at Marysville, Yuba County, California, who was a daughter of James Monroe Reese and Elizabeth M. Lusk. Occupation, clerk. Politics, Republican. Religion, Reformed Episcopal. Residence, Chicago, Illinois.

CHILDREN:

44. I. Florence May, born January 22, 1896.

Soon after the birth of WILSON JAMES STEBBINS, his parents removed to Mexico, New York. After his father returned from the war, the family removed to Syracuse, New York, and while there WILSON JAMES began his education in the Clinton School. In the spring of 1868 they removed to North Syracuse. At twelve years of age he began to work for farmers and gardeners in the summer, attending the village school in the winters. During the winter of 1878-9 he attended the Onondaga Academy and in the spring of 1879 entered the State Normal College at Albany, New York. After attending one term he taught one school year in the school situated on the plank road leading from Syracuse to Central Square. With the money earned by teaching, he resumed his studies in the fall of 1881, and graduated in January, 1883. He was obliged to borrow some money in order to complete the course, but in a year and a half, through his own efforts, he was able to pay off this indebtedness. After graduation he taught a school in New York for one year and one in Pennsylvania for one year. In January, 1886, he went to Chicago, and has since been engaged in mercantile work. He attended the Chicago College of Law in 1892-4, and intends to practice the profession as soon as he can feel assured of his success.

13. V. Lucinda Sophia, born in 1831 at Lafayette, Indiana; died March, 1834, aged 3 years, at Lafayette, Indiana.

HORACE STEBBINS was a soldier in the war of 1812. He afterwards followed boating on the Ohio river. After serving as an apprentice at the carpenter trade with his brother-in-law, Julius Whitmore, he went aboard the steamer "Swan" as ship carpenter, making a voyage to New Orleans. While there he was taken sick with yellow fever. When he had sufficiently recovered, he returned to Cincinnati, arriving there about Christmas, 1816. He engaged as carpenter on a steamer then in course of construction, and when it was launched he went aboard as ship carpenter. He remained with this ship, navigating the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, for many years, until wrecked near the present site of Cairo, Illinois. On a piece of wreckage he floated down stream for about twelve miles, and landed on the Kentucky shore in a dense forest—wet, cold and hungry. He made his way down the river toward St. Louis. Luckily a flat boat came floating down stream with three men aboard. MR. STEBBINS hailed them, but, thinking he was a decoy for some murderous band of Indians (of whom the flat boatmen were very wary), they pulled for the opposite shore. However, when they saw him enter the water for the purpose of swimming to them, they sent a small boat, which they had in tow, to his assistance.

After he had been made comfortable and had had a good supper, they turned in for the night. Upon rising the next morning they were confronted by the danger of a large camp of Indians just below them and in full view. It was very early in the morning, and, pulling rapidly for the other shore, they were not seen, or, if seen, were not molested. On arriving at St. Louis MR. STEBBINS again went aboard a steamer and returned to Cincinnati. From there he went to Marietta, Ohio. It is not known how long he remained there, but in 1823 he was again on the river, having an interest in the steamer "River Queen," which was burned a year later between St. Louis, Missouri, and Alton, Illinois. MR. STEBBINS was completely ruined by this disaster.

Returning to Cincinnati he worked at his trade in the city, having concluded to quit the river traffic. He soon removed to Laporte, Indiana, where he worked at his trade in company with his brother-in-law, Julius Whitmore. After remaining there two years he returned to Lafayette, where he worked as cabinet maker for several years. He then went to New Town, Fountain County, Indiana, where he purchased a homestead from the United States government.

His oldest daughter, with her husband, settled near Wild Horse Creek, seven miles south of Wilmington, Will County, Illinois, and proceeded to open up a farm. MR. STEBBINS having heard of the new Eldorado, sold his Indian possessions and settled on a farm one mile south of his daughter's. New settlers were coming in fast, and MR. STEBBINS' skill as a carpenter made him in great demand. Leaving his farm to the care of his wife and children, he worked at his trade, and for a time was very prosperous.

While shingling a house, the scaffold gave way, and MR. STEBBINS' hip was dislocated, disabling him for a long time. When he had recovered he started to Wilmington, driving an ox team. The oxen became frightened by a dog chasing a deer, and ran away, upsetting the wagon and throwing MR. STEBBINS out. His hip was again dislocated and he was rendered a cripple for life.

Soon after the death of his wife he sold the farm and engaged in the mercantile business, in which he was very successful. He afterwards sold out his business and removed to Agency City, Iowa, where his youngest son was located.

His second marriage proved very unfortunate, and after his wife had secured all of his money he was turned out almost penniless. He again endeavored to work at his trade, but being badly crippled he gave it up. From that time he made his home with his children, and died at the home of his son, Willard, at Ottumwa, Iowa.

CAPTAIN JOHN STEBBINGS and his brother, Joseph, in 1714, were assigned the first house lot of thirty acres, in Leicester, Massachusetts. He and his brother were neither of them twenty-one years of age, when they came to Leicester. This house lot was on "Strawberry Hill," and comprehended a considerable part of the village of Leicester. He was the first grantee named in the deed, dated January 8, 1724, giving the easterly half of the town to the first fifty families.

History of Spencer, Mass. p. 255.

Washburn's Leicester, Mass. pp 229 & 420.

He was a housewright by trade, but he acquired only a moderate estate; yet he was a man of intelligence and influence, and was often promoted to offices in civil and military life. He went to Spencer, Massachusetts, in 1737 or 1738, and took possession of the lot (No. 6) lately owned by Major Isaac Lamb.

MR. STEBBINGS was a soldier in the French war in 1746, serving under Governor Shirley, in Canada and Nova Scotia. Again in 1755 and 1756, he was captain of a company in the regiment of Colonel Ruggles, stationed at Fort Edward, where he died.

In 1780 BENJAMIN STEBBINGS bought two lots of Lot Whitcomb, which included what is now called Silver Lake, but was then known as Stebbins Pond. He served three days as a private in Benjamin Cox's Company, "for scouting," enlisting August 3, 1780. He was a representative from Barnard, in the Vermont Assembly in 1782.

Vermont State Rec.

New York and Vermont had been engaged in a heated controversy as to their respective boundaries. While the Legislature of New York was endeavoring to compensate those of their citizens, who in maintaining the jurisdiction of that state on the "Grants," had lost much of their real and personal estate, the government of Vermont was engaged in devising measures to satisfy the wants of its citizens. During the summer, the sufferings of the people becoming severe, and their complaints loud, on account of the scarcity of money, Governor Chittenden, in the month of August published an address to the inhabitants of the state, which was evidently dictated by a paternal regard for their welfare and happiness. He earnestly exhorted his fellow-citizens to be industrious and economical; to avoid, as much as possible, the purchase of foreign productions; and to devote their attention to the raising of flax and wool, and the various articles necessary for food and clothing. He counseled them to exercise prudence and diligence in business; mutual forbearance and kindness in their relations with one another; and a true regard for the safety of the state. By this course of conduct, and by the assistance which the Legislature would afford at their next session, he expressed a hope that their sufferings would be brought to a speedy termination, and they would become a prosperous and happy people.

Hall's Hist. of Eastern Vt. pp. 547-9.

In accordance with the promise of Governor Chittenden, measures were taken by the Legislature during their session in October, to relieve the embarrassments of the people. Those who were inclined to suffer inconvenience rather than disturb the peace of the state, ceased to complain and endeavored to quiet the murmurings of their neighbors. Others, who owed money, determined to prevent the sitting of the courts in which judgments and executions might be obtained against them. By the terms of the statute, a session of the court of common pleas for the county of Windsor was appointed to be held at Windsor, on Tuesday, October 31, 1786.

On the morning of that day, a mob of about thirty armed men, from the towns of Barnard and Hartland, under the command of Robert Morrison, a Hartland blacksmith, and BENJAMIN STEBBINGS, a Barnard farmer, assembled near the court house at Windsor, a little after sunrise.

Though no movements to that effect were made, yet their obvious design was to hinder the sitting of the court. Prompt in the discharge of duty, Stephen Jacob, the State's attorney, and Benjamin Wait, the high sheriff, waited on the malcontents, read to them the riot act and several other acts relative to unlawful assemblages; made proclamation to them to disperse; addressed them on the "impropriety of their proceedings," and kindly advised them to return peaceably to their homes. After a little hesitation, they concluded to obey the laws, and dispersed. The court convened in the afternoon, adjourned to the next morning, and then proceeded to business without any further molestation.

At a term of the supreme court held at Windsor, November 14, 1786, warrants were issued for the arrest of the rioters, it being charged that they, on October 31, "with guns, bayonets, swords, clubs, drums, fifes, and other warlike instruments, unlawfully, riotously, and tumultuously did assemble and gather themselves together, to disturb and break the peace of the state," and that, being thus assembled, they did "parade themselves in the front of the court house in said Windsor in martial array, and with fixed bayonets did resist, obstruct and hinder" the sheriff of the county, and the county court, "from entering the said court-house, and them did impede from opening and holding the said court, then and there by law to be opened and holden." To these charges Morrison pleaded guilty, and threw himself upon the mercy of the court. He was sentenced to suffer one month's imprisonment; to procure bonds of one hundred pounds for his good behavior for two years; to pay a fine of ten pounds, and to bear the costs of the suit. The punishment of the other offenders, who either pleaded or were found guilty, was proportioned according to the offences they had committed.

At a session of the General Assembly, Tuesday, October 24, 1797, "The Petition of Stephen Jacon & BENJ. STEBBINS Esquires wherein they pray for some relief in Consequence of their being bound for Wm. Sweetser Esquire Late Sheriff of the County of Windsor &c. being read & by the House referred to Mess'rs J. Wright, E. Wheelock, I Smith, Williams, Sam'l Miller, Keys, sias, & Goodrich, to Join a Committee from Council &c. Resolved that Mr. Olin be appointed to Join said Committee."

In THE ACTS OF THE VERMONT ASSEMBLY we find the following:

"An Act granting to Jesse Williams Judge of Probate for the district of Hartford and his successors in office, in trust, for the use of MERCY STEBBINS, wife of BENJAMIN STEBBINS of Barnard 100 acres of land in said Barnard.

Sec. 1.—It is hereby enacted &c—that there be, and hereby is granted to Jesse Williams Esq. of Woodstock in the County of Windsor, Judge of Probate, for the district of Hartford and to his successors in office, in trust for the use and benefit of MERCY STEBBINS, wife of BENJAMIN STEBBINS in said County of Windsor, 100 acres of land situate in said Barnard, the property of this state bounded south on Moses Fay, easterly on Nathaniel Wight, northerly on Moses Coolidge, and westwardly on lands that the state now own.

Sec. 2.—And it is hereby further enacted that the said MERCY STEBBINS shall possess, occupy and improve the aforesaid 100 acres of land under the direction of the aforesaid Judge of Probate and his successors in office during her natural life, and may dispose of the premises by deed or otherwise to take effect after her decease to any of her children, and in case the said MERCY shall not make such disposition of said land in her lifetime then and in that case the same shall be equally divided to and among the children of said MERCY, and in case the said MERCY shall have [no] children living at the time of her decease then the land shall descend in the same manner as the law regulating the descent of estates direct.

Passed Nov. 12, 1803.
A true copy attest David Wing Jun.
Secretary."

In 1808 MERCY STEBBINS deeded to her son Charles (then as the wife of BENJ. STEBBINGS) a portion of this grant. The Central Cemetery, containing 1½ acres, was sold to the town by MARCY & CHARLES STEBBINGS of Barnard from this land, the deed being dated 1809.

No record of the death of BENJAMIN STEBBINGS or his wife, MARCY, nor any grave stone can be found in Barnard, Vermont.

WILLIAM PITT CLEVELAND STEBBINS attended the district school, and was a bright, studious lad. After leading school, he was apprenticed to a druggist, as his father was determined that he should be a doctor. This profession was most distasteful to the young man, so he ran away. He could find nothing to do, and did not care to go home. Finally he obtained a situation as cook on board a small fishing smack. He served in this capacity until discovered by his father, who took him home, promising not to send him back to the druggist, but to allow him to study building and architecture, for which he seemed to be naturally adapted.

He at once began the study of architecture under an able architect and builder and made rapid progress. He went to New York City to obtain better advantages in his line of work. At the age of twenty-one he planned and built a large church, which was so successful that he immediately took his place among those at the head of his profession.

In 1849, when news of the discovery of gold in California reached the far east, MR. STEBBINS determined to try his fortunes in the new Eldorado. On February 5, 1849, during a severe storm, he embarked one th steamer "Crescent City," and arrived at Chagris, on the 14th of the same month. On March 13th, after twenty-eight days on the Isthmus of Panama, he embarked on the steamer "Oregon" for California, and entered the Golden Gate and cast anchor in the port of San Francisco, on the thirteenth of April. Upon landing, MR. STEBBINS went immediately to a hotel. He did not go to the mines, but worked at his chosen occupation. However, he invested a large sum of money in mining, and for a time was very successful in his ventures.

In November, 1852, having amassed quite a fortune, he sent for his family, and they were soon domiciled in their new home.

Being a man of undoubted integrity, kind, and generous to a fault, MR. STEBBINS made many friends.

He built the old "First Presbyterian" church at San Francisco, the first fire-proof structure, four stories high, situated on Montgomery and Washington streets. He also built many of the stores, hotels, private residences, exchanges and commission houses. While in the employ of the Government, he constructed the old State's Prison at San Quentin, and Custom House or Post Office, and the United States Branch Mint. From the headquarters at Washington, D. C., he received a manuscript testifying to his fidelity and integrity, stating that no accounts more accurate than his had ever been submitted to their department.

He was Superintendent of Construction of the United States Mint at San Francisco. When the foundation of the building had been completed, the plans and specifications of part of it were changed, and MR. STEBBINS was obliged to make a trip to Washington in the beginning of the winter. It was the winter of 1872, when the "overland train" was first run, without the protection of snow-sheds. He was "snowed in" for many days, and on his arrival in Washington was dangerously ill for a number of weeks. He returned home and gave his time and attention entirely to his business, as he took pride in the erection of the Mint, and at the close of the year had the entire structure finished with the exception of part of the roof. The ability, caution, and skill with which he carried on the important work committed to his hands, are attested by the character of the work itself, and by the notable fact that under his long superintendence, only one of his numerous employees ever met with an accident.

By his ability in his profession he contributed largely to the beautifying and adorning of San Francisco by the erection of both public and private edifices, which stand as monuments of his skill and industry.

He was an exemplary citizen, and his many virtues and sterling integrity of character have left an example worthy of emulation.

DEERFIELD MASSACRE.

Burt Fam p. 270.

In January, 1704, an expedition was formed at Montreal, Canada, under command of Major Hertel de Rouville, for a foray upon Deerfield. The party consisted of two hundred Frenchmen and one hundred and forty-two Indians, and Major de Rouville had for subaltern officers his two brothers. The foray upon Schenectady fourteen years earlier was almost exactly repeated. The invaders made a forced march through the wilderness and suffered terribly from intense cold. When they reached the vicinity of their destination there were four feet of snow on the ground and the crust of it was sufficiently strong to bear the weight of men, while the drifts had made easy inclined paths to the gates of the palisade that encircled the devoted village. The sole sentinel on duty, depending upon mid-winter rigor as a sufficient defense, had been unfaithful to his trust and sought shelter from the icy blasts, when just before daybreak on February 29, the assault was ordered upon the undefended and unsuspicious town. A general attack was simultaneously made by the invaders scattered throughout the settlement. The unfortunate inhabitants, wakened from slumber and pleasant dreams by the frightful war-whoops of the savages, were massacred or disabled as they ran affrighted from their assaulted homes, to which incendiary torches were applied to illuminate the awful scene.

Burt Fam. p. 271.

Whittier's description of the destruction of Pentucket four years later, by De Rouville, who met his death there, is equally applicable to the earlier tragedy.

"A yell the dead might wake to hear,
Swelled on the night air, far and clear,—
Then smote the Indian tomahawk
On crashing door and shattering lock,—
Then rang the rifle shot,—and then
The shrill death scream of stricken men,—
Sank the red ax in woman's brain,
And childhood cry arose in vain,—
Bursting through roof and window came,—
Red, fast and fierce, the kindled flame,
And blended fire and moonlight glared
On still dead men and weapons bared."

As in other such raids, the Frenchmen failed to restrain their barbarous allies, and the imagination can but faintly conceive the terror and frenzy that overwhelmed the homely people of that quiet hamlet when they realized in the mingling light of flame and dawn that they were in the hands of their ruthless foe. What a commentary upon the utter barbarism of war was the misery of those ill-fated people, caused by the quarrels of two monarchs three thousand miles distant. Very few of the unfortunate people escaped to the adjacent forest, and such of the others as were not slaughtered at sight were gathered in the open space near the little church, and among these were Benjamin Burt and his wife, who had escaped death only to witness the destruction of their home. Less than eight years earlier, in a sudden raid upon her father's house, Mrs. Burt had seen her mother and two brothers and infant sister killed by the Indians, and another brother desperately wounded, while she escaped by hiding in the attic, and her father, a brother and a sister were taken captive to Canada, whence they did not return for two years. Her father's fate was the best that could now befall her, as she and other wretched survivors clung together in scanty attire, alternately chilled by the winter's cold or scorched by the heat of their blazing homes as they tearfully counted the slain by their absence, mingled their lamentations over the loss of loved ones, and saw all their treasure burning to ashes, while a dreadful uncertainty obscured their own fate. In their midst their revered pastor, the Rev. John Williams, addressed prayers for divine assistance and support, which were interrupted by the orders to march, as the forlorn captives were driven from the village, while its conflagration still continued. The number of prisoners was one hundred and twelve, and among them were Mrs. Burt's step-mother, Mrs. Hepzibah Belden, and Mr. Burt's cousin, Nathaniel Brooks, with his wife and two children. The prisoners were first taken to the west mountain, north of the late village, and on the same afternoon started on their terrible journey to Canada. Their route was up the valley of the Connecticut, and the deep snows and rugged character of the wilderness made their progress as slow as it was painful. On March 3rd they had gone only thirty miles on their way and advance after that date was even slower. The condition and suffering of these unfortunate creatures cannot be adequately described; in the few brief, agonizing minutes of the attack they had neither forethought nor time to make the least preparation for such a fearful journey; poorly clad and shod, the rocks, bushes and brambles soon rent their scanty garments and when sodden with penetrating melted snow their power to resist the icy blasts was almost exhausted. At night when the exertion of motion p. 273. stimulated their blood they could only save their vital warmth by lying close together in the snow, a feebly palpitating mass of misery. There was the further privation of insufficient food—the Indians always depending for subsistance on their forays upon the haphazard wild game that fell in their way. Of course, the captives received the minimum share of such poor food as they had, and that of a quality repugnant to the weaker ones. The women and children naturally suffered the most from the unintermitting fatigue and deficient food, and when they lagged or were disabled they were immediately slain by the impatient and ruthless savages. The wife of Pastor Williams was the first victim, having given out early in the march, and was tomahawked in the presence of her afflicted husband and children. The next victim was Mrs. Belden, the step-mother of Mrs. Burt, then nearly sixty years old, who met the fate that about ten years earlier had overtaken her three daughters at Hatfield, where they were tomahawked by the Indians. Altogether, there were thus slain on this sad journey nineteen captives, most of them being pregnant women. Some of the poor creatures when they felt that their powers of endurance were nearly exhausted, calmly prepared for death by seeking the consolation of prayer with Mr. Williams, who gives in his journal a pathetic account of the resignation and heroism of these brave souls about to part from their tortured, worn-out bodies.

Burt Family p. 274. When the party reached Coos in Vermont (near the present site of Newbury on the Connecticut) it was entirely destitute of provisions, and two of the captives died here of sheer starvation. The hunters having succeeded in getting some game, the dreary march was resumed, until on March 25th the party reached Chambli, about eighteen miles northeast of Montreal. Here, on April 14th, Mrs. Burt was delivered of her first child, a son named Christopher. Subsequently the captives were distributed among the Indians and French and put to various services, the larger portion of them being employed in the convent and Jesuit academy near Montreal, Mr. Burt and his wife being among these. Strong efforts were made to convert them to the Roman Catholic faith, and these Mr. Williams subsequently denounced in earnest phrase in his rare and famous book, "The Redeemed Captive Returning to Zion."

NON-CONSUMPTION PLEDGE.

The various arbitrary acts of Great Britain wrought the inhabitants of New England to a high pitch, which culminated in the circulation of the following pledge:

"We, the subscribers, inhabitants of the town of Brimfield, having taken into our serious consideration the precarious state of the liberties of North America, and more especially the present distressed condition of this insulted Province, embarrassed as it is by several acts of the British Parliament, tending to the entire subversion of our natural and charter rights, among which is the act for blocking up the Harbor of Boston, and being fully sensible of our indispensable duty to lay hold of every means in our power to preserve and recover the much injured constitution of our country, and conscious, at the same time, of no alternative between the horrors of slavery, or the carnage and desolation of a civil war, but a suspension of all commercial intercourse with the island of Great Britain, do, in the presence of God, solemnly and in good faith, covenant and engage with each other, that, from henceforth, we will suspend all commercial intercourse with the said island of Great Britain, until the said act for blocking up the said Harbor be repealed and a full restoration of our charter rights be obtained.

Hyde's Brimfield, Mass. pp 309-311.

"And 2d. That there may be the less temptation to others to continue in the now dangerous commerce, we do in like manner solemnly covenant we will not buy, purchase or consume, or suffer any person, by, for, or under us to purchase or consume, in any manner whatever, any goods, wares or merchandise, which may arrive in America from Great Britain aforesaid from and after the last day of August next ensuing; and inasmuch as in us lies, to prevent our being interrupted and defeated in this our only peaceable measure, entered into for the recovery and preservation of our rights, we agree to break off all trade, commerce and dealing whatever with all persons who, preferring their own private interest to the salvation of their now perishing country, shall still continue to import goods from Great Britain, or shall purchase from them who do import.

"3. That such persons may not have it in their power to impose upon us by any pretence whatever, we further agree to purchase no article of merchandise from them, or any of them, who shall not have signed this, or a similar covenant, or will not produce an oath certified by a magistrate, to be by them taken to the following purpose, viz: 'I, ..., of ...., in the county of ...., do solemnly swear that the goods I have on hand and purpose for sale, have not, to the best of my knowledge, been imported from Great Britain into any port of America, since the last day of August, 1774, and that I will not, contrary to the spirit of an agreement, entered into through this Province, import, or purchase of any person, so importing any goods as aforesaid, until the port, or harbor of Boston shall be opened, and we are fully restored to the free use of our constitutional and charter rights.'

"And, lastly, we agree that after this, or a similar covenant, has been offered to any person and they refuse to sign it, or produce the oath above said, we will consider them as contumacious importers, and withdraw all commercial connections with them, so far as not to purchase of them any article whatever, and publish their names to the world."

"Witness our hands July 1, 1774."

At a town meeting held in Brimfield July 1, 1774, there were one hundred and eighty-nine signers to this covenant, among whom were:

STEBBINS AUTHORS.

Dict. of National Biography Vol. 54. p. 123. and Allibone's Dict. of Authors Vol. 2. p. 1230.

HENRY STEBBING (1687-1763), divine, Rector of Rickinghall, Suffolk County, baptized at Malton in Suffolk on 19 August, 1687, was the fourth son of John Stebbing (1647-1728), a grocer of Malton, by his wife, Mary (d. 1821), a daughter and coheiress of Richard Kenington. Henry entered St. Catharine Hall, Cambridge, as a sizar on 24 February, 1704-5, graduating B. A. in 1708, M. A. in 1712, and D. D. in 1730. On 19 October, 1710, he was elected a fellow, and on 27 of June, 1738, was incorporated at Oxford. On Lady day, 1713, he resigned his fellowship of being presented to the parish of Lower Rickinghall in Suffolk, and on 31 May, 1726, he was instituted rector of Garboldisham in Norfolk. On 14 July, 1731, he was elected preacher to the Society of Gray's Inn, London, and, in the following year was appointed chaplain in ordinary to the king. On July 19, 1735, he was installed archdeacon of Wiltshire, and in 1739 became chancellor of Sarum. In 1748 he became rector of Redenhall in Norfolk, and retained the charge for the rest of his life. He died at Gray's Inn on 2 January, 1763, and was buried in Salisbury Cathedral, where a monument was erected to his memory. His portrait painted in 1757 by Joseph Highmore, hangs in the National Portrait Gallery, London. An engraving by James Roberts is prefixed to the edition of his Tracts published in 1766.

Stebbing was well known among his contemporaries as a controversial champion of Church of England orthodoxy. Among others he wrote against George Whitefield and Benjamin Hoadly, bishop of Bangor. His chief antagonist, however, was Warburton, with whom he carried on a voluminous warfare for many years. Its origin was Stebbing's attack on Warburton's "Divine Legation of Moses." Stebbing's most important works were: 1. "A Rational Enquiry into the proper methods of supporting Christianity, so far as it concerns the Governors of the Church," London, 1720. 2. "An Essay Concerning Civil Government, considered as it stands related to Religion," London, 1724; reprinted in "The Churchman armed against the Errors of the Times," Vol. III., London, 1814. 3. "An Apology for the Clergy of the Church of England," London, 1734. 4. "A Brief Account of Prayer and Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, and other religious duties appertaining to Christian Worship," London, 1739, 4th edition, 1771. 5. "A Caution against Religious Delusion," London, 1739. This work, directed against the Methodists, ran through six editions within a year. 6. "Christianity justified upon the Scripture Foundation," London, 1750. 7. "Sermons on Practical Christianity," London, 1759-60. A Collected edition of his earlier writings appeared in 1737, entitled "The Works of Henry Stebbing," London. He has also been credited with an anonymous satire entitled "The Fragment," published at Dic. of National Biog. Vol. 54. p. 124.

Cambridge in 1751, which assailed several leading Statesmen and ecclesiastics of the time. His wife was a daughter of Robert Camel of Eye, Suffolk County.

He died at Gray's Inn on 13th of November, 1787. He was the author of a collection of "Sermons on Practical Subjects," London, 1788-1790, published by his son, Henry Stebbings, a barrister, with a memoir. (British Museum Addit. MS. 19170 f 196. Gentlemans Magazine 1787. II 1032.)

STEBBING, HENRY, D. D., son of preceding [Henry Stebbing b 1687], b. Rickinghall, Suffolk, 1716; a fellow of Catherine Hall, Cambridge, 1734; in 1749 he became rector of Giningham and Trunch in Norfolk and succeeded his father as Preacher of Gray's Inn, upon his resignation in 1750; d. 1787. Sermons on Practical Subjects, with account of the Author, by his son, London, 3 vols. 8 vo. I, II, 1788; III, 1790. See list of his separate publications in Watt's Bibl. Brit. HENRY STEBBING, D. D., poet, preacher and historian, son of John Stebbing (died December 11, 1826, buried at St. James Cemetery, Picadilly) and Mary Rede (died May 24, 1843, buried in Cemetery of St. James, Picadilly), of the Rede family of Suffolk. Was born August 26, 1799, at Great Yarmouth, Norfolk County, England; died September 22, 1883, at St. James parsonage, Hampstead Road, London; married December 21, 1824, MARY GRIFFIN, born February 22, 1805, at Norwich, England; died February 3, 1882, at Hampstead Road, London, who was the daughter of William Griffin of Norwich, and sister of Vice Admiral William Griffin.

[Also two sons and two daughters whose names were not given.]

HENRY STEBBING "penned a stanza" when he was a school boy, and his first poem, "The Wanderers," was printed at the close of 1817 and circulated among his friends.

In the following August he published "Minstrel of the Glen and other Poems," which included "The Wanderers." On July 4, 1818, he was admitted a sizar of St. John's College, Cambridge. Graduated B. A. 1823, M. A. 1827, and D. D. 1839. On April 3, 1845, he was elected Fellow of the Royal Society.

MR. STEBBING was ordained deacon in 1822, and priest in 1823; within a few months he was in charge of three parishes for absentee incumbents, and rode forty miles each Sunday to do the duty. In 1825 he was appointed evening lecturer at St. Mary's Bungay, and about 1824 he became perpetual curate of Ilketshall, St. Lawrence, Norfolk.

From 1836 to 1867 he was Perpetual Curate of St. James's, Hampstead Road, London; Chaplain to University College Hospital, 1837 to 1879, and Rector of St. Mary, Somerset, London, 1857 to 1867.

Dict. of National Biog. Vol. 54. p. 124. and Allibone's Dict. of Authors Vol 2. p. 2230.

His portrait was painted at least four times and an engraving of the one by T. W. Harland was published. His portrait, from a photograph, appears in The Illustrated London News, October 6, 1883.

His principal works were, 1. History of Chivalry and the Crusades, London, 1830, 2 vo. (In Constables Miscellany Vols. 1 & 51.) "Style clear, sentiments and opinions just, descriptions picturesque, and the stream of narrative strong and flowing. Mr. Stebbing is a rising writer." Noctes Ambros, April, 1830. 688. RELIGIOUS SOCIETY.

The people in the south part of the town increased so rapidly that, as early as 1765, they made application to the town for money to support preaching among them in the winter, but this was promptly refused. Wilbraham Cent p. 98.

At a meeting in 1767, the town refused the "South-part" the privilege of having "Two Months Preaching in the Winter Season upon their own cost". Such a vote would not conciliate the STEBBINSES and Langdons and Morrises and Chaffees. They rallied in 1772, and asked to be set off as a town, but this was voted down. After several struggles they were finally set off as a Parish, June 11, 1782.

On January 14, 1795, a petition was presented asking that the petitioners 250 might be "incorporated into a Parish, by the name of the Methodist Parish in Wilbraham". Among the names signed to this petition are found:

CYRUS STEBBINS
ELIJAH STEBBINS
FREDERICK STEBBINS
JUSTICE STEBBINS
PHINEAS STEBBINS
TIMOTHY STEBBINS
WALTER STEBBINS

This petition was referred to the committee on Parishes, which reported the usual order, notifying the different parishes in town "that they appear and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said Petition should not be granted", at the first session of the next General Court. The South Parish made answer on June 12, 1795, by "John Bliss and PHINEAS STEBBINS" that "the parish have made no objections against the prayer of the petition being granted".

On May 29, 1805, the following petition was presented: p. 252.

Petition of NOAH STEBBINS and others for incorporation "Into a Parish or Religious Society, by the name of the Methodist Episcopal Parish, in the towns of Wilbraham, Springfield, and Ludlow".

"To the Honorable the Senate, & the Honorable the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in General Court assembled, in Boston, on the twenty-ninth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and five:—

The Petition of the subscribers most humbly exhibits that they are of a persuasion and denomination of Christians commonly called Methodists, belonging to the towns of Wilbraham, Springfield, & Ludlow, in the County of Hampshire; and that they are of sufficient number & ability to support a teacher and defray the expenses of upholding publick worship among themselves.

They therefore pray that they may be admitted to the rights and benefits of the Constitution in this respect, that they, and such others as may hereafter join them in such manner as shall be prescribed by law, may be incorporated into a parish or religious society by the name of the Methodist Episcopal Parish or Religious Society of the towns of Wilbraham, Springfield, & Ludlow, and be invested with the powers, privileges, & rights, which by the law & Constitution of this Commonwealth parishes ought to have and enjoy. And as in duty shall pray''.

This was signed by sixty-one persons, among whom were:

CALVIN STEBBINS, 2d.
ELDAD STEBBINS
ELDAD STEBBINS, JR.
FRED. STEBBINS
LUTHER STEBBINS
LUTHER STEBBINS, 2d.
NOAH STEBBINS
NOAH STEBBINS, JR.
PHINEAS STEBBINS, JR.
STEPHEN STEBBINS
SYLVANUS STEBBINS
WALTER STEBBINS
ZADOCK STEBBINS

In the same words another petition was presented at the same time, and was signed by thirty-four persons, among whom is found the name of DAVID STEBBINS. These petitions were referred to the Standing Committee on Parishes, by the House of Representatives. It was ''Ordered, that the Petitioners cause attested copies of their Petitions, with this order thereon, to be served on the respective Town Clerks of the said towns of Wilbraham, Springfield, and Ludlow, and on the several Parish Clerks within the said towns, thirty days at least before the second Wednesday of the first session of the next General Court, that all concerned may then appear, and shew cause (if any they have) why the prayer of said Petitioners should not be granted.

In Senate, February 22, 1806.
Read and accepted.
Sent down for concurrence,
H. G. Otis, President.

In the House of Representatives, February 24, 1806.
Read and concurred,
Timothy Bigelow, Speaker.''

MOUNDS, ETC., ON STEBBINS FARM.

Extracts from History of Northfield, Massachusetts.

The truncated hill—which evidently was once washed on the north by the Ashuelot, and on the west by the united rivers—rises about sixty feet above the ordinary water level, and overlooks the valley to some distance below Pomeroy's island, and up to Clary's island, and the old Fort Hill. On the front the sides are steep; and a ravine cut it off from the low hills to the east, and extended round to the meadow on the south. A spring, easily accessible, comes out at the foot of the hill on the north. Tillage has essentially modified the appearance of the surface, and the ravine in the rear. The most interesting works now visible are 33 granaries, situated on the southwesterly side. They occupy an off-set, just above the line of high water, and are included in a space of 90x45 feet. They vary in size from three to five and seven feet in diameter, and as the land has been kept in grass the outlines are perfectly preserved. Some of these basin-like depressions are pp. 43 44.

now from twelve to fifteen inches deep. On opening one, it was found to be about four and one-half feet deep and lined with clay.

MR. JOHN M. STEBBINS, who was born upon the place, states that these granaries were much deeper and more distinct thirty-five years ago than now. He says, "Directly west of the old barn, on my father's farm, on the same level with the house and in the angle made by the fence as now built, the barn, and the brow of the hill, there were in 1840 many small mounds, which my grandmother said were Indian graves. The land had p. 44. never been plowed, except by the first settlers, and the mounds were readily traced, though the surface was tolerably smooth. Two of us boys mustered courage one day and carefully moved the turf from one of the mounds, and digging down not more than four feet struck a skull, the very thing we were digging for. We found nearly the whole skeleton—in a sitting posture—some parts considerably decayed, but the skull was in good condition, and the teeth were large and perfect. A physician who examined it pronounced it to be the skeleton of a young woman."

The mounds were only a short distance to the southeast of the granaries and fort.

The fact is handed down in the STEBBINS FAMILY—who have held the property for three or four generations—that Peter (or John) Evans, who removed hither from Northfield street in 1741, planted an orchard in this old burial-ground; and that the Indians—during the wars that followed—repeatedly destroyed the trees. This would show that a peculiar sacredness was attached by the natives to this spot; and the raised mounds, and the sitting posture of the body exhumed, indicate the burial-place of a chieftain's family. And it is a point of interest, to be noticed in this connection, that among the Indian relics found in the soil on this farm, weapons and ornaments predominate. In 1872 a beautifully polished stone pendant, something in the shape of a carpenter's plummet, and about the size of a pullet's egg, was found here.

About eighty rods below this cluster of mounds is another wigwam site. When the railroad was constructed a few years since, as the workmen were excavating a cut, the earth caved in and disclosed thirteen skeletons lying close together. One of them indicated a man six and one-half feet in height.

EBENEZER STEBBINS [probably No. 304], who lived where Emery Court now is, in Springfield, Massachusetts, was an inn-holder. A barn in the rear of his establishment was turned into a cartridge factory during the Revolution. In the time of the War, Springfield was a recruiting place and a rendezvous for soldiers. Being centrally situated, easy of access, and at the same time so far inland as to be out of the reach of sudden invasions of the enemy, it was, early in the War, fixed upon as a suitable place for making and repairing the various munitions of war and a depot for military stores. At first the whole was confined to Main street. The various artificers employed had their shops where they could find a convenient place and resided themselves in that part of the town. The laboratory for cartridges, and for various fireworks manufactured on such occasions, was in the barn then owned by EBENEZER STEBBINS on the place owned in 1828 by Dr. Kingsbury, south of FESTUS STEBBINS'. After two or three years, the public works were removed to the hill where they now are.

"MR. JONATHAN STEBBENS of Springfield" in list of subscribers to "Prince's Chronology" about 1728. The subscribers to "Prince's Chronology" may be regarded as the principal literati of New England.

JONATHAN STEBBINS [probably No. 976] was known extensively in his day as "CLARK STEBBINS, the poet of Longmeadow" He wrote a tribute to the death of Lieutenant Nathaniel Burt, of the 3d Massachusetts Regiment, who was killed at the battle of Lake George, September 8, 1755, of which we give a portion to show his poetical ability.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

He'll venture far, I know his courage well,
Fearless of death, he'll face the Gallic foe,
Nor turn his back upon the sword or bow;
Nor all the tawny tribe with Hellish Yell,
Shall daunt his Mind or Make His Courage fail.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

At length a Courier the sad tidings brought
Of a most bloody battle Lately fought,

Between New England Troops and Gallic foe,
Which spread the Plain with a Promiscuous woe.
But yet no certain Tydings we could hear,
Which held us in suspense Twixt hope and fear,
Untill a Reverend Letter Passed the Plain
With the sad, mournful news Brave Burt was slain.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

No common life was taken when he fell,
No pen of mine his real worth can tell,
When stood surrounded with a Martial Band
His mien Bespoke him fit for high command;
Stately in body, of a manly form,
Fit to strike terror, or the passions warm,
Facetious, Plesent, Innocent, and Grave,
His Lightest airs showed something in him brave,
Airy but Prudent, merry but not Light,
Quick in discerning and in judging Right,
Where he engaged, was faithful to his trust,
In Reasoning Cool, Strong, Temprate and just,
No friend to Slander, a Sworn foe to Spight,
Nor quarrelsom, but strong enough the fight.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

Wherever he was intimately known,
His Gifts and Graces eminently shown;
View him in his Domestic Life, and Care—
Perhaps he shown as bright as any Where.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

The muse is not so blind but what she can see
He was not from all imperfections free,
But must Beg Leave most humbly to Declare
That such united virtues are but rare."

ELIJAH EMBREE HOSS was educated at Ohio Wesleyan College at Delaware, Ohio, and Emory and Henry College at Emory, Virginia. BISHOP HOSS is one of the most noted men in the editorial, educational, and religious circles of the South. He has been President of Martha Washington College, Abingdon, Virginia, and of Emory and Henry College, Emory, Virginia. For five years he was professor of Biblical and Ecclesiastical History in the Theological Department of Vanderbilt University at Nashville, Tennessee. For twelve years he was editor of the Christian Advocate, the connectional organ of the whole Southern Methodist Church. He has been delegate to six General Conferences, and to two Ecumenical Conferences, fraternal delegate to the Canadian and Northern Methodist Churches. BISHOP HOSS comes of prominent Colonial and Revolutionary ancestry; and was for several years President of the Tennessee Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

ELIJAH EMBREE HOSS, JR., enlisted in the Fourth Tennessee Volunteer Infantry in the Spanish-American War. He was at once appointed Color Sergeant; and on September 16, 1898, was promoted and commissioned Second Lieutenant of Company G. On February 21, 1899, he was again promoted, becoming First Lieutenant of Company G. He served five months in Cuba. He had the distinction of being the youngest commissioned officer in the Tennessee State Troops. He is now manager for the Bradstreet Mercantile Agency at Chattanooga, Tennessee. In politics he is a gold democrat, and in religion a Southern Methodist.

626h. IV. Sarah Williston, born Jan. 21, 1800; married Josiah Dwight Whitney.+
626i. V. Deacon John Peyson Williston; married Clarissa Lyman; lived at Northampton, Mass.

REV. PEYSON WILLISTON graduated from Yale in 1783, and was minister at Easthampton, Mass., from 1789 until 1835. Several of his sermons were published.

HON. SAMUEL WILLISTON began his studies at Philips Andover academy, with a view of entering the ministry; but abandoned his purpose, owing to weakness of the eyes, and engaged in the manufacture of buttons, in which industry he gained a large fortune. This occupation was begun at his own home by his wife, and extended until many hundred women in the neighboring towns were employed under his superintendence. In 1831 Joel Hayden began the manufacture of buttons with machinery of his own invention at Williamsburg, Mass. Mr. Williston entered into partnership with him, and they continued the business there until 1848, when Mr. Williston purchased Mr. Hayden's interest and removed the factory to Easthampton. Afterwards he engaged in the manufacture of suspenders. In 1840 he established in his native town Williston Seminary, a preparatory school of high grade, to which he gave at different times about two hundred and seventy thousand dollars, and bequeathed to it an additional five hundred thousand. He also gave to Amherst one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, endowing professorships there in 1858-9, and gave liberally to Mount Holyoke Female Seminary. He erected a church at Easthampton three times, two of which were burned down. His benefactions amounted to more than one and one-half million dollars. He also did much to improve the appearance of his native town. In 1841-1843 he was a member of the Massachusetts Legislature. His widow gave to the seminary that bears his name the Williston homestead, to be used as the principal's house after her death, which occurred in 1885.

626b. SARAH WILLISTON,[7] daughter of Rev. Noah Williston and Hannah Peyson, was born June 14, 1765, at West Haven, Conn.; died January, 1798; married October 12, 1785, at Longmeadow, Mass., to REV. RICHARD SALTER STORRS, born August 30, 1763, at Mansfield, Conn., died October 3, 1819, at Longmeadow, Mass., who was a son of Rev. John Storrs and Eunice (Conant) Howe. Profession, pastor of Congregational Church at Longmeadow, Mass.

626j. REV. RICHARD SALTER STORRS, JR.,[8] son of Rev. Richard Salter Storrs and Sarah Williston, was born February 6, 1787, at Longmeadow, Mass.; died August 11, 1873, at Braintree, Mass.; married, first, to SARAH STRONG WOODHULL; married, second, to HARRIET MOORE; married, third, October 18, 1835, at Wilbraham, Mass., to ANNE STEBBINS, born November 15, 1792, at Stratford, Conn.; died August 27, 1874, at Braintree, Mass., who was a daughter of Stephen William Stebbins and Eunecia Street. [See No. 1100.] Profession, Doctor of Divinity. Religion, Congregationalist. His only child (by his second wife) was:

Richard Salter Storrs, D. D., born Aug. 21, 1821, at Braintree, Mass.

The son, RICHARD SALTER STORRS (born 1821), was graduated from Amherst in 1839, and after teaching in Monson Academy and Williston Seminary studied law under Rufus Choate. Turning his attention to theology in 1842, he was graduated from Andover Seminary in 1845 and ordained on October 22nd of that year in Brookline, Mass., where he had been called to the charge of the Harvard Congregational Church. In 1846 he accepted the pastorate of the newly organized Church of the Pilgrims in Brooklyn, New York, where he remained until his death. The degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on him by Union College in 1853, and by Harvard in 1859; that of Doctor of Laws by Princeton in 1874, and that of Litterarum Humaniorum Doctor [Doctor of the more humane letters, i. e., the humanities, or university studies] by Columbia in 1887. In 1855 he delivered the Graham lectures before the Brooklyn Institute on "The Wisdom and Goodness of God," his subject being "The Constitution of the Human Soul," and in 1879 he delivered the L. P. Stone lectures at Princeton Theological Seminary. He also gave the lectures on "Preaching Without Notes" at the Union Theological Seminary in New York in 1875, and those on the "Divine Origin of Christianity" in the same institution in 1881, which were repeated before the Lowell Institute in Boston. DR. STORRS attained a reputation as one of the most eloquent pulpit orators in the United States. In 1873 he made an address on the "Appeal of Rome to Educate Protestants" before the Evangelical alliance. He was well known for his historical studies, and delivered frequent addresses on public occasions. In 1875 he made the address before the New York Historical Society on its seventieth anniversary; in 1876, the centennial oration in New York City; and in 1881, the Phi Beta Kappa oration at Harvard.

DR. STORRS was elected a trustee of Amherst in 1863, and since 1873 was president of the Long Island Historical Society. In 1887 he was chosen president of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. He was one of the editors of "The Independent" from 1848 to 1861, and in addition to numerous articles in periodicals appeared a "Report of the Revised Edition of the English Version of the Bible." His published works further include "The Constitution of the Human Soul" (1856); "Conditions of Success in Preaching Without Notes" (1875); "Early American Spirit and the Genesis of It" (1875); "Declaration of Independence, and the Effects of It" (1876); "John Wycliffe and the First English Bible" (1880); "Recognition of the Supernatural in Letters and in Life" (1881); "Manliness in the Scholar" (1883); "The Divine Origin of Christianity Indicated by its Historical Effects" (1884); "The Prospective Advance of Christian Missions" (1885); "Forty Years of Pastoral Life" (Brooklyn, 1886); and "The Broader Range and Outlook of the Modern College Training" (1887).
